Darwin's Baby
1100 Per Cent Profit
Lost 20 Wives, Etc.
Warning to Middle Age

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

SIR HORACE DARWIN is dead, aged 77.

Seventy-six years ago his father, the great Darwin, was experimenting with little Horace, to prove his theory of man's descent from inferior animals.

He observed that babies cling to hair or whiskers. That's because our monkey-like ancestors as babies clung to their mothers' fur. Darwin observed that a baby a few days old had great strength in its little fingers. That's because the baby monkey held on to its mother with four little hands, while the mother jumped from tree to tree, at least Darwin says so.

Make the right investment in the United States, real estate or securities, and take care of the investment, it will take care of you.

Ask Mr. Thomas McCarter, able head of the New Jersey public service corporation.

An investment of $6,600 in his corporation six years ago is worth today $67,320, a return of 1100 per cent on your money.

Some real estate does even better. It depends on the judgment of the buyer and patience in waiting.

But buy TO KEEP, don't gamble.

Chang Tsung Chang, Chinese warrior, until lately dictator of Shantung province, went to war, as you read here, leaving behind twenty-eight wives and concubines.

Beaten in battle, he returns and finds only eight of the twenty-eight ladies left, three wives and five concubines. He is hunting for the other twenty, lacking wisdom that has well enough alone.

A well-known merchant, 55 years old, played a "hard, fast" game of tennis, beating players half his age, went home, told his wife about it, and was dead a little later.

Tennis or any other violent game is dangerous to every man past forty.

Howard M. Anderson, typesetter, 70 years old, very strong, says: "Take a cold bath every morning. I get up at 6, can do cartwheels and handsprings."

Mr. Anderson might do double harm somersaults and still it would be foolish for a man of 70, or any age past 30, to take a cold bath in the morning before exercising.

Your nervous system should not be shocked violently, but saved to give warnings and information. A cold bath in the morning in many cases is a short cut to the grave.

Drumshambo, a little Irish village in County Leitrim, has 300 population and 17 licensed drinking places, one public house for every 18 of the population, and too many.

New York, with 6,000,000 population, has according to police estimate over 25,000 speakeasies, one for 240 of population.

The week in Wall Street opened cheerfully for those that know enough not to sell short. Steel went to a new high price for all time, more than $169 a share. AFTER a distribution of 40 per cent of free stock. That price renders pensive some that sold the original Steel stock at $15 a share and up in the old days.

Russell Sage used to say, "Young man, everybody has a chance at least once in his lifetime to buy Western Union at $50. Buy it when your chance comes."

The chance isn't likely to come again. Western Union, a spite of radio and telephone, sells now above $150.

A thoughtful correspondent, writing from Geneva, says the League of Nations worries about United States domination in world affairs. The League of Nations needn't. If other nations mind their business, and we mind ours, everything can go smoothly.

We are richer than some other nations, but greater resources. That doesn't hurt the other nations.

What hurt them is getting into wars, murdering each other and ruining themselves. A drunkard after a fight doesn't attribute his bruises to his peaceful neighbors.

The American business man, paying 7½ or 9 per cent interest on money, wonders if he is dreaming when he reads this headline in the financial news: "PARIS MONEY STILL EASY; 3½ per cent continues for discounts; bank rate to 3d at 3½ per cent."

SLAIN DIVORCEE LURED BY RICHES

SEN. EDWARDS DEMANDS THAT MRS. WILLEBRANDT BE OUSTED FOR 'BIGOTRY'

By JAMES L. [illegible]
International News Service

New York, Sept. 25—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt "should be asked to resign her position as assistant attorney-general by both President Coolidge and his attorney-general," Senator E. I. Edwards of New Jersey, a Democrat, said in a scorching statement made public today.

"She should be driven from office," said Edwards, who accused the woman dry prosecutor of fostering bigotry and breaking her oath of office.

Mrs. Willebrandt is now [illegible] engaged in making a series of anti-Smith political speeches.

Senator Edwards said that Mrs. Willebrandt's speech "last Sunday night before the Northeast Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church "is a disgrace to the department of which she is a part."

"If the Department of Justice is not a mockery of the very thing for which it was instituted—fairness and justice to all men—Mrs. Willebrandt should be driven from office so that she might spread her poisonous anti-Smith propaganda unsupported by

HOOVER GAINS LEAD IN NEW JERSEY POLL

New York, Sept. 25—Ballots from New York city voters continue to roll in for the Nation-wide poll conducted by the Boston Evening American and other Hearst newspapers, but they indicate no change in the outlook.

Smith retains his two to one lead. The totals are:

Smith	30,190
Hoover	13,604

Back of Smith are 11,146 men and 9144 women, and supporting Hoover are 10,111 men and 5493 women. This vote in 1924 gave Coolidge 11,358 men and 5302 women, and Davis 8202 men and 3954 women.

In counties close to New York City Hoover's lead continues to grow. This section's vote now stands:

Hoover	8892
Smith	4368

Hoover's backing here comes from 4514 men and 4078 women. Smith's

HOPPE STAYS, GUARDED, AS JURY GOES ON VIEW

Permission to accompany the murder jury on its trip to inspect the death scene in Quincy was today denied Stephen Hoppe, who is on trial for his life in Superior Court at Dedham charged with the cold-blooded slaying of Patrolman Alfred N. Hollis of Quincy last October.

Hoppe, through his counsel, sought permission from Judge Keating to go along with the jurors under guard on the trip to Quincy.

Judge Keating's refusal to extend permission was in keeping with the attitude of the Norfolk county authorities, who are taking no chances with the accused youth.

PARALYSIS IS FATAL TO 6TH WATERTOWN VICTIM

Infantile paralysis added one death in Watertown and another sufferer in Waltham to its toll today.

Edward Odette, 14, of River st., Waltham, was removed to the Waltham Hospital, victim of the malady and his name was placed on the danger list. He was cured of the disease 12 years ago and its recurrence makes his an extreme case, doctors say. This brings the total in Waltham to 41 sufferers and six deaths.

In Watertown the death at the Children's Hospital of James Farrar, 10, of 6 Cross st., brings the toll to six deaths and 64 cases.

Police Dog Beats Best Human Swim Record 6 Hours

New York, Sept. 25 (INS)—The German police dog "Lady" technically completed its swim of the Hudson river [illegible] Albany to New York [illegible] before midnight last night after an elapsed swimming time of 44 hours and 32 minutes.

This beats the best human swimmer's record by nearly six hours.

The dog was taken from the water on the Jersey side, opposite the Columbia yacht club, where the swim was scheduled to end. The boat of John Schweighart, owner of the dog, began to fill with water and necessitated ending the day's swim. The dog will finish today.

PREPARE TO SHIVER!

A cold snap will bite into the comfort of Bostonians and New Englanders tomorrow.

So beware!

Today's warmup, after a snappy morning, was only a delusion and a snare, according to the Weather Man, and a chill belt that drove temperatures down to 18 above in South Dakota and 10 above in Saskatchewan today, is whooping it up toward the east.

By mufflin time tomorrow the cold blast should be here, and it will remain indefinitely, with frosts over night, even heavier than the frosts of today's early hours.

LONELY LIFE SENT HUB WOMAN 3000 MILES TO SEEK ANOTHER MATE

By FRANK C. [illegible]

Separated from his intended victim by 3000 miles, a man whom she never had seen, plotted for six months the hatchet-murder of Mrs. Katherine McGrath Clarke.

His motive was the robbery of $3500 which he knew she possessed and which he explicitly instructed her to carry in cash when he lured her across the continent from Boston to Spokane and to a horrible death along a lonely road in the Washington foothills.

This almost fantastic theory was practically established as fact today by Boston and Spokane authorities investigating the slaying of the 38-year-old Watertown divorcee who met death instead of a $100,000 husband at the end of her journey.

Two men are suspected in the hatchet-slaying. One is Archie F. Mock, Spokane mill worker, who met her upon arrival in Spokane and drove her towards Idaho—to [illegible] her wealthy husband-to-be—on the ride during which she was killed. The other is James R. Murphy, with whom she conducted a matrimonial [illegible] correspondence for months.

LONELY LIFE LED HATCHET VICTIM TO SEEK HUSBAND IN WEST

HER BROTHER-IN-LAW

E. D. Fitzgerald, brother-in-law of the Boston divorcee who was beaten to death near Spokane, was horrified by the crime.

HER DIVORCED HUSBAND

Photo made several years ago of C. A. Clarke, divorced husband of the Boston woman beaten to death when she went West to meet her "mail order fiance."

LAST WORD FROM HER WAS POSTAL MAILED ON HER WAY WEST

Photo of postal card Mrs. Catherine McGrath Clarke mailed to Mrs. E. J. Walker, her friend and landlady at 69 Pembroke st., Boston. "Love from Clarkie" was her last message, mailed in Chicago. Police say robbery was the motive for murder. She carried $2000 west to meet a fiance she had never seen, but whom she was to wed.

three months and who promised her a $10,000 wedding gift and a honeymoon in Europe if she would "bring $2000" and be his bride.

Moock has been under arrest since Mrs. Clarke, who lived at 69 Pembroke st., South End, until nine days ago, was found slain near an old fortress at Foothills, Wash., Sunday afternoon.

Repeated grilling since then by W. C. Greenough, prosecuting attorney of the county in which she was murdered, has revealed little except that Moock is lying, Spokane police say. He will be taken to the scene of the slaying.

Murphy is not in custody. In his letters to Mrs. Clarke—letters which he told her to be sure to carry with her on her trip West—he delegated Moock to meet her at Spokane.

MAY BE SAME MAN

There is a possibility, police say, that Moock and Murphy are one and the same individual.

Her lonely existence since her divorce at Cambridge in 1923 and a desire to marry a man who could provide for her for the rest of her life, led Mrs. Clarke to her terrible fate, two Boston friends of the attractive divorcee revealed today.

They are Burton E. Hall, a local watchmaker, and Mrs. Emma J. Walker, landlady of the Pembroke st. house at which she lived. Upon their stories police base their theory that a man or men, whom she never had seen, planned her death and lured her 3000 miles with the false promise of a wealthy husband and a home.

Her loneliness led Mrs. Clarke into a correspondence with many strangers through the medium of matrimonial clubs. Through one of them, two months ago, she heard from "James R. Murphy" of Harlsborn ave., Spokane, Wash.

GOT 10 LETTERS.

She answered his letter. They exchanged photographs. She received in all about 10 letters from him, according to Hall's recollection, and he professed to be heir to $100,000 which he would receive if he married this September and could present $13,000 at the bank. Mrs. Clarke could pool her $2000 with his own funds, they would wed and collect the $100,000 he promised her.

About two things he gave explicit instructions: She must carry her money in cash (checks would not do) and she must also leave behind her none of his letters.

Both of these instructions she carried out although until a few minutes before leaving Boston she had decided to leave his letters behind.

Both Hall and Mrs. Walker were apprised of her plans. It was the Boston watchmaker who helped her adjust her finances before leaving, helped her obtain $1673 which she had on deposit in three local banks and warned her against carrying such a large sum in cash.

IN $100 BILLS

She disregarded his warning and changed her cash into $100 bills, packed her clothing, including two dresses she made herself for her wedding trousseau, and left Boston for the Pacific coast a week ago Yesterday.

Hall escorted her to the South Station and bade her good-by. On the Friday previous to her departure she had celebrated her 37th birthday with a party of about 20 friends at the Pembroke st. house. All were aware of her plans to go West and marry a "wealthy man."

Before leaving Mrs. Clarke told Hall she would not take Murphy's letter with her, but would leave them behind in a secure box of which she was to have the keys.

A premonition that everything was not all right had apparently possessed her to do this. But shortly before leaving she experienced a change of mind and when Hall opened the box in the presence of a Boston Evening American reporter today the alleged "come-on" letters had disappeared.

In addition to the cash, the Watertown divorcee wore a wrist watch, a string of pearls and a ring set with an amythist and diamonds and two other pieces of jewelry.

TO MEET HER

Murphy had written that his sister would meet her in Spokane, but when she demurred, stating she would not care to meet her until after the wedding, Murphy wrote again, saying that Moock, his best friend, would meet her at the train and drive her to a spot where she would see her intended husband for the first time.

The Spokane man represented himself as a college graduate and as being born in Ontario.

From Chicago, where she changed to a train for Spokane, wiring Murphy her car and seat number, she addressed a letter to Mrs. Walker. This letter, indicating that, once launched on her fateful trip, she began to doubt the manner of its termination, was as follows:

CHICAGO LETTER

When you receive this note, you will know that I arrived in Chicago.

Well, you old darling, from the bottom of my heart I thank you for your kindness to me.

And your kindness will never be forgotten by me, you treated me better than my own mother ever did. Later on when things all go right I will repay you if I can.

You know that I feel sorry for Burton, and if you want any errands done in town just call him up; he would be glad to do anything for you. If I don't marry I will come back and you and I will go into some kind of business or you better sell out and come west.

I will write you again soon. I caught cold last night and my system is out of order. Hopes of love to you and all the gang. Love CLARKIE.

The letter had been written on the train en route west. To Mrs. Walker and to Hall, also, she mailed postals from Chicago.

MISSED FRIEND

In Chicago she failed to meet a friend, Mrs. Ruth Levine, to whom she had addressed a letter just before leaving Boston. This letter, unopened, was returned to the Pembroke st. address when she had gone. It bore a wrong address.

What happened in Spokane after she was met by Moock is not known. Moock's story is that he met Mrs. Clarke at the train and drove her to the spot, before designated, where she was to meet the man she was to marry.

This man, he claims (not naming Murphy), gave him several drinks and he fell asleep. When he sobered up the murder had been committed.

FORMER MARRIAGE

Mrs. Clarke was born at New Canaan, Ct., Sept. 14, 1891, the daughter of Thomas H. and Bridget McGrath.

She was married April 25, 1914, at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, to Ralph A. Clarke, 22, of Tremont st., Boston.

They were divorced in Middlesex Superior Court, at Cambridge, in 1923, she alleging desertion. Clarke did not contest the suit and she was given a decree nisi, which became absolute the following year.

The divorcee was an expert dressmaker, and also made and repaired book rugs. During her marriage she lived in Watertown. Later she lived in East Boston, Revere, and finally in the South End.

Hall said the courtship began by mail with Mrs. Warn's Matrimonial Agency in Los Angeles, where he also was an applicant.

"I recall very plainly the address that she sent her letters to when writing this so-called Murphy. It is this same address that she told me to write to her when she got there, No. 2717 East Hartsborn ave., Spokane. The name was James R. Murphy.

LETTERS GONE

"She told me that he wanted her to be sure and bring those 10 or more letters that I read with her. And only two days before she left, in talking with me she said, 'Burton, I am not going to take them with me. I'll leave them in my box and in your care.'"

"I can't understand what has become of them. She may, however, have placed them in that suit case which I shipped to Spokane. I wonder if the police have found this and, if not, who claimed the bag on her ticket?

"I am where they mention a fellow named Moorck in the papers. So did this Murphy in one of his letters. He told Catherine that he would introduce her to him when she got there. He said that he was his closest friend.

HARD LIFE

"The poor kid has had a tough time all through life, it seems. It wasn't love that attracted her to marriage bureaus; it was want of someone to make her comfortable for the rest of her life.

"She hasn't had much luck with her own money through life. She lost time and again in deals. Some of her hard earned dollars were lost in oil stocks; more in Indiana Reservation lands, in New York real estate, on an auto trip to California, and on a mortgage held on property in Wellesley."

"Muzzle" Is Urged for Mrs. Willebrandt

Chicago, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Chicago Tribune prints a letter from Benjamin Fuellman, a member of the Republican Wisconsin State central committee, addressed to James Good, Western manager for Herbert Hoover, which says "unless Mrs. Willebrandt is muzzled, Mr. Hoover is sure to go down to defeat."

The letter was prompted by the reports of strength of Al Smith in Wisconsin. The letter continues.

"Political observers in this State, if they are fair, will tell you Governor Smith would carry this State if the election were held now. He is getting stronger since Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt has taken the stump.

"Unless Mrs. Willebrandt is muzzled Mr. Hoover is sure to go down to defeat. It is not enough for Republican managers to disclaim responsibility for Mrs. Willebrandt's activities. They should demand that she refrain from all further participation in the campaign.

"If she fails to heed this request President Coolidge should call for her resignation."

SEN. EDWARDS WOULD OUST WILLEBRANDT

the present Republican administration," he said.

Edwards accused Mrs. Willebrandt, the Anti-Saloon League "and the intolerant elements to which she is appealing for aid and succor of the Hoover ticket" of making the "whispering campaign" against Governor Al Smith recently denounced in a speech at Oklahoma City.

He said the country was flooded months ago with "treasonous and untrue pamphlets attacking Governor Smith's character" and that they were prepared "by bigots and intolerants of the lowest stripe."

Charging that Mrs. Willebrandt has violated her oath of office, Edwards said:

"Because of her activities since the Kansas City convention, Mrs. Willebrandt has consistently violated the spirit and letter of the bill of rights—the very instrument which she promised to honor and uphold when she took the oath of office of assistant attorney-general, and has dragged religion and the church into politics.

"Her actions and her words attacking the honesty and integrity of Governor Smith will receive the condemnation of every decent element in America.

"If she wishes to prostitute her high office on the altar of politics, why does she not condemn the Ohio gang of thieves who were responsible for her appointment to the political office she holds today and who were driven out of the Harding Cabinet because of their treachery to the Nation?

"Let her remove the mote from her own eye before she seeks the defeat of a candidate by appealing to the basest and most dangerous element in American life today—religious prejudice."

whose prison record is studded with escapes and attempted breaks for liberty.

A crowd numbering more than 200 was on hand in the vicinity of the Pill Brothers' hardware store, 1629 Hancock st., Quincy, when the jurors, in charge of three deputy sheriffs, reached there in a luxurious interity bus.

Five Granite City policemen were standing guard in front of the store to preserve order when the bus and arrived.

JURORS VIEW DEATH SCENE.

Among them, in civilian clothes, was Patrolman John Fitzgerald, who was working with Patrolman Hollis attempting to trap a desperate safe-cracksman in the hardware store when their quarry leaped through a window and shot Hollis from behind.

Asst. Dist.-Atty. William P. Kelley led the jurymen into the store and pointed out where the safe stood on the night of the crime, called attention to the windows and the rear door, and then showed them the concrete-paved alleyway leading back to Mechanic st.

He also asked them to note the location of street lights, a two-apartment house on Mechanic st., a stable in the rear of the block of stores and a police signal box on Hancock st.

The pallid prisoner slouched in his seat in the courtroom cage and seemed, only slightly interested in the preliminaries preceding the trip to the death scene.

He was heavily guarded as on the opening day. Four deputies with loaded revolvers in their pockets stood behind the cage and kept a close watch on him.

It was reported that his father was on his way from Augusta, Me., to attend the trial, but he was not seen in the courtroom. Spectators were admitted freely today and by afternoon, when the trial had its real beginning, the benches were filled.

WARNED BY JUDGE.

Judge Keating admonished the jurors to keep their minds open until all the evidence was before them and warned them not to discuss the case among themselves.

The court heard of Hoppe's desire to accompany the jurymen to Quincy at a bench conference at which Atty. James T. Cassidy, chief defense counsel, and Prosecutor Kelley spoke in whispers. Cassidy later explained that Judge Keating simply stated it was within his discretion to refuse and he would do so in this case without giving any reason.

Having lost his opportunity for a motor trip through Hyde Park and Milton to Quincy, Hoppe was forced to return to Dedham Jail in the company of his four guards when the bus carried the members of the panel away.

Three men, Harry G. Studley, Thomas L. Bates and Albert E. Fales, were specially sworn in as deputy sheriffs to guard the jurymen on their ride.

Atty. Jacob J. Hanburg of Boston joined Cassidy in Hoppe's defense with the opening of today's proceedings.

Before the jury left for Quincy to inspect the murder scene, the prosecutor pointed out certain places on a blueprint drawing which was tacked on the wall near the jury box.

LOSES CHANGED BABY SUIT

Detroit, Sept. 25 (AP)—The suit of William C. Greatrex for $200,000 against the Evangelical Deaconess hospital for loss of his infant son through an inter-change of babies five years ago, was thrown out of court today by Judge Dewitt H. Merriam.

The court sustained a motion by defense in dismissing the suit on the grounds the hospity is a charitable institution and noliable for acts of its agents.

Greatrex charged the hospital with negligence in giving his child to Alphonse Vanninck. A nurse testified she got the baby to Vienminck instead of he was the father. Vienminck told authorities he gave the child to passing autoists and did not arn their names.

MAYOR HITS AT SCHOOL BOARD

Charges that the salary item in the Revere school budget has been "padded" at least 20,000, byt the "sanctified spenders" in the school committee, was made today by Mayor John E. Walsh.

Dr. Walsh made his assertion after receiving a request from the school committee for $25,865.61 in a supplementary budget to take care of coal, repairs, light and telephone costs.

Unless the money is appropriated before October, the school department will be without light and telephone service, the request said.

In forwarding the request to the City Council, Mayor Walsh declared in a memorandum:

"I am convinced that the salary item made up by the school committee is padded to the extent of at least $20,000, and to offset this and protect the taxpayers of Revere, I have been obliged to cut down or eliminate other items in the budget of the sanctified spenders known as the school committee.

"It may be interesting for you, as members of the school committee, to know that the number of pupils enrolled in Revere public schools in 1927 was 8174, and the superintendent of schools informs me today that the enrollment for 1928 is between 8100 and 8200.

"I ask you members of the City Council to put the question why it is going to take $25,865.61 more this year than it did last year to educate the same number of pupils."

ESCAPES DEATH WITH YOUTH IN OHIO OUTRAGE

St. Clairsville, O., Sept. 25 (AP)—An attempt to lynch Lester Berry, 18, and Mrs. Goldie Wheeler, 21, residents of Barton, near here, by a band of "night riders" a week ago last Sunday night, was revealed here today when the Belmont County Grand Jury returned an indictment against John Eszerhardt, also of Barton, charging riotous conspiracy.

Miss Hannah Gallagher, Berry's sweetheart, also of Barton, escaped from the mob and ran to her home.

According to the story the three related to the grand jury Berry and his sweetheart went for a buggy ride Sunday evening, September 16, and were accompanied by Mrs. Wheeler, who was visiting at the Gallagher home.

A short distance from home they were stopped by a band of masked men dressed in white robes trimmed in red, who took them from the buggy. Miss Gallagher made her escape and ran to her home.

Berry and Mrs. Wheeler were taken to a clump of trees about half a mile distant, where ropes were fastened about their necks and the other ends thrown over limbs of the trees. The ropes then were tightened until the two victims' toes merely touched the ground.

While Berry and Mrs. Wheeler were dangling from the tree limbs with their toes tipping the ground, the mask slipped from the leader's face and they were able to recognize him.

When the leader of the mob realized he was recognized, he was said to have given orders that they be cut down. That was done, with the admonition they were to return home and mention the incident to no one under threat of death.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

A NEWSPAPER FOR EVERY MEMBER OF EVERY HOUSEHOLD

BOSTON, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1928

Kirstein 'Talks Shop' to N. E. Clubwomen

Louis E. Kirstein of William Filene's Sons Co., Boston, led a discussion on "New England Over the Counter," at today's session of the New England Conference of Women's Clubs at the New Ocean House, Swampscott.

This was followed by another discussion on "Solving the Cotton Goods Problem," Mrs. Harry A. Burnham, leader, and a third on "Style, the Magic of Business," led by Everett Bradley of the Bradley-Goodrich Co., Haverhill.

The morning session opened with the official song, "The Landing of the Pilgrims," and was followed by the report of the nominating committee and appointment of special committees, the session concluding with balloting for officers.

At the afternoon session Harry R. Lewis, chairman of the farm marketing division, New England Council, delivered an address on "The New England Laicl."

The New Bedford mill strike, with settlement "as far away as the poles," is the result of communist activity, Governor Fuller charged in an address at the conference.

The Governor also took a shot at politics, so "rotten that unless changed the growth of socialism will be astounding."

"I believe something could have been done to check the New Bedford strike," he said. "I made a study of conditions; I looked into both sides. I believe that if in the beginning the employers had thought the matter over and talked it over the strike would never have reached its present condition. But now after weeks a settlement is as far away as the poles. Why? Because the Communists got busy."

MOTOR HONEYMOON IN EUROPE FOR HUB COUPLE—BETTY ALDEN

The Robert Herricks, Jr., Newly Wed, Now on Atlantic Aboard Liner Paris

THE SIMPLE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT MR. AND MRS. ROBERT HERRICK, JR., have sailed abroad for their honeymoon conveys very little of novelty since this has ever been the way of newlyweds who are Midas-pursed and lead the leisurely sort of lives permitting long sojourns abroad. They sail across the sea just as soon as wedding bells have rung, to see together those old world sights each has known separately in pre-bridal days. Mr. and Mrs. Herrick go the usual thing one better, however. The young Boston clubman and his stunning bride have snugly ensconced in their steamship's lower recesses their own shining, silent motor car to whisk them about the Continent and away from well worn tourist routes.

THE HERRICKS, JR., ALONG WITH MRS. HERRICK'S COUNTLESS trousseau boxes are aboard the steamship Paris that nosed out of New York a day or two ago and steamed away for France. Once ashore, in their long-nosed, petrol-eating, foreign-made monster all the Continent is theirs for the exploring. A fanfare of trumpets will signal their return a month or two hence. The Herrick-Pierce alliance enriches Boston's upper circles by the addition of a very stunning matron who will queen it brilliantly over Mr. Herrick's town establishment in Lower Beacon st.

ANOTHER STEAMSHIP TOOK OUT A FAMILY GROUP CONSISTING of Mrs. John H. Paine of Weston and Boston, and two younger daughters, Miss Charlotte Paine and Miss Louisa Paine. Their voyage has nothing whatever of romance in it, not even the filling of trousseau boxes, since both these daughters are still more concerned with school books and studies than with suitors and bridal veils. Still of the schoolgirl age, the present journey is taken, so I believe, for the express purpose of leaving Miss Louisa Paine at school abroad. After seeing her safely settled Mrs. Paine and Miss Charlotte Paine are returning home, some time in October.

THE SEASON'S CYCLE SWINGS ON MAJESTICALLY AND SO brings back from abroad Mrs. B. B. Bristow Draper of Boston and Hopedale, radiant as always and beautifully arrayed in Paris confections. Trust Mrs. Draper to raid Parisian establishments for their most ravishing frocks and headgear. She has the French flair for correct accoutrement worn with dash and chic. The Draper pilgrimage abroad from foreign capital to famous spa was more or less a family affair, including first Mrs. Draper and the second son, Eben Draper, later to be joined by Mr. Draper and Benjamin H. Bristow Draper, Jr., the young collegian known familiarly among his intimates as "Ben."

ONLY ROBERT, YOUNGEST OF THE DRAPER TRIO OF SONS, remained on this side to spend his summer as youth best loves to do, at a camp in the mountains of New Hampshire. While the autumn flares into its dress of crimson and gold the Drapers stay on at their lovely home out in Hopedale, and not until autumn has nearly yielded to winter's onslaught do the Draper's desert "The Crossways" and move their household into the Dartmouth st. establishment. Even then Hopedale is Mecca for weekends right through the winter, since the country house is almost never closed from year's end to year's end.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS HARRIS POWERS ARE BIRDS OF passage over seas. They packed their trunks and departed on the current sailing of the Paris. Mr. and Mrs. Powers hail from the City of Brotherly Love, and have a charming summer home perched high over pretty little Seal Harbor up on Mount Desert. They call the place Hiracombe. Recently they have been in the West, briefly, at Colorado Springs.

FIRST AMONG THE HOMECOMING ONES AFTER A SUMMER abroad are Dr. William E. Chenery and Mrs. Chenery of Commonwealth ave. They sailed away weeks ago along with the happy set that annually embarks for the other side as regularly as June follows May. And now are just back after an itinerary that took them up and down and across pretty much all of Europe. The Balkan States they found particularly interesting, as these volcanic, small nations are quite apt to be, generally speaking, when one is a visitor within their frontiers.

MISS PEGGY BENT

Society girl, is an ardent worker for the S. P. C. C., which is celebrating its 50th anniversary tomorrow.

WEDDING PLANS FOR MISS LILLIAN LOWELL and Merrill Griswold move on apace. The engagement that fairly electrified Boston friends of the bridegroom-elect is of shortest duration, and scarcely three weeks after the glad news is made known Mr. Griswold and Miss Lowell are to wed. Miss Nancy Olive Morison will be one of the bridal entourage for this brilliant intercity alliance. If Dame Rumor may be relied upon the romance budded and bloomed during one of those luxurious "round-the-world" cruises. In fact the engagement announcement followed hard on the heels of the cruise's ending, and now wedding bells are to peel after the shortest of engagement interludes.

DEVOTED TO HORSES AND horse shows it was a foregone conclusion that the F. Harold Tolmans of Cohasset and Brookline should go over to the Springfield horse show and come home filled with enthusiasm for that fine horsey event. The Tolmans motored up, had a box, and entertained as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. James, also of Cohasset, and also belonging to the set that prides itself on owning fine horses and devoting much time and attention to showing them. The Tolman stables have recently welcomed a beautiful saddle pony addition to the string.

VERY LIKELY IT WILL BE Miss Virginia Tolman who will be in the saddle if this potential blue-ribboner is put into the lists at the Brockton Show. Pretty little Miss Tolman rode away with many a ribbon down at Cohasset and Scituate with her mare, Dorothy Stone. Enthusiasm for the horse game is keeping young Whitney Stone on the alert. Mr. Stone's hunter, The Babe, is bringing him fame and he intends to add others of like caliber to his string of "Stone Farm" winners.

GERMANY ANGRY AT QUESTION OF HER SINCERITY

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 25 (AP)—Germany is bitter because there has been so much belittlement of the sincerity of her fulfillment of the disarmament provisions of the treaty of Versailles. Count von Bernstorff, German delegate and former ambassador at Washington, told the assembly of the League of Nations today.

He ridiculed the idea that Germany could quickly transform her peace industries into war industries saying that her armed neighbors could overwhelm her without a chance for self-defense.

The German representative attacked a resolution presented to the assembly by the disarmament committee by which the preparatory disarmament commission would be convened early in 1929.

DIRIGIBLE IN THREE MORE TESTS FOR U. S. FLIGHT

Friedrichshafen, Ger., Sept. 25 (INS)—Germany's newest and biggest dirigible, "Coung Zeppelin," will make another trial flight tomorrow, but it is expected to be an short, as its object is mainly to test mechanical equipment.

It is reported there will be three more test flights before the dirigible starts for the United States.

KENYA CHIEFS MOBOLIZE TO MEET PRINCE OF WALES

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, East Africa, Sept. 25 (AP)—The principal chiefs and headmen of Kenya tribes are assembling at Nairobi for the first time to welcome the Prince of Wales and his brother, the Duke of Gloucester. The royal visitors, travelling down the east coast from Egypt, are due at Mombassa next Friday. The natives have established a huge camp on the outskirts of Nairobi and are being entertained with moving pictures and displays of fireworks.

FIGHT RELIGIOUS CHANGE IN MEXICAN CONSTITUTION

Mexico City, Sept. 25 (AP)—Final rejection of demands for amendment of the religious provisions of the constitution was recommended to Congress today by the executive committee of the National Agrarian League.

The committee urged Congress to discard the request of the Roman Catholics "energetically and definitely." It is believed that this action will set a standard for the treatment of any similar petition in the future.

SCHULTE, CIGAR MAGNATE, ON HONEYMOON

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—David A. Schulte, head of the United Schulte Cigar Stores, and his bride of four days, the former Mrs. E. H. Koehler, were on a wedding cruise aboard his yacht today. They were married in Stamford, Ct., Saturday.

Schulte and his first wife separated in 1926, but that there had been a divorce was not generally known until the announcement of the wedding. The first Mrs. Schulte has been given custody of their three children.

The present Mrs. Schulte is the widow of E. H. Koehler, business associate of Schulte's and former treasurer of Park & Tilford, one of the Schulte enterprises. Mr. Kohler died three years ago.

Mr. Schulte, who is 55 years old, rose from an $18-a-week store clerk to one of the largest chain store operators in the country. Although his wealth runs into millions, he is said to have retained his simple tastes, does not have a private secretary or stenographer and when in New York goes to work by the subway from his Park ave. apartment.

BAR POLITICS IN SOMERVILLE SCHOOLS

Teachers in Somerville schools, as the result of a school board order adopted early today, will be advised against conduct in school hours that might be construed as indicating political preference during the presidential campaign.

The order, introduced by Miss Elizabeth J. Caines, a member of the board, was one providing that Supt. of Schools Everett W. Ireland be instructed to advise the teachers against any such indication of preference.

Miss Caines explained that her introduction of the order resulted from three complaints to her of a conversation between two teachers in the Western Junior High school. The complaints alleged that one teacher was heard to say that anyone who voted for a certain presidential candidate "ought to be poisoned."

Only one of the 16 members of the board, Miss Minnie S. Turner, recorded herself against the order.

The school board was in session six hours, ending at 2 a. m. today.

During the session the board elected Walter P. Sweet, vice-principal at the Western junior high school, an assistant superintendent of schools at a salary of $3500 a year, with automobile allowance. Forty ballots were taken before Sweet was named.

ISABEL STONE, "BARGE GIRL," TO MARRY POET

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—Isobel Stone, daughter of the late William W. A. Stone, one time Governor of Pennsylvania, who was found last summer living with her sister on an abandoned barge in Sherman creek, is to marry Henry Harrison, poet and publisher.

Discovery of the two girls, who gave up society for artistic careers, living in poverty, created quite a stir at the time. Their father had been considered a wealthy man and it was believed he had left a large estate. Their plight was blamed by relatives on their "strong-headedness" in insisting on artistic careers.

DISMISSED BRITISH NAVAL OFFICER GIVEN COMMAND

London, Sept. 25 (AP)—Barely six months after being "dismissed from his ship" on charges growing out of the famous Royal Oak affair, Capt. Kenneth G. B. Dewar has been appointed to command H. M. S. Tiger.

The Royal Oak affair, which some of the British newspapers at the time facetiously compared with the comic opera "Pinafore," centered about a dance aboard the battleship Royal Oak stationed in the Mediterranean.

BOOTLEGS GOT HIGH PRICE FOR 'COLORED ALKY'

Philadelphia, Sept. 25 (AP) — Prices prominent Philadelphians paid for liquor they believed imported, but which the government says was merely colored alcohol, were before the Federal court today in the trial of Joel D. Kerper, so-called wet bootlegger.

Despite testimony of witnesses that liquor purchased from Kerper was good, a chemist who tested one of the assortment seized when Kerper's place was raided last July 1 said the whiskey was colored alcohol and the gin "distilled spirits with a gin flavor."

Laying the ground work for his case, the Government attorney said liquor "was artificially colored and called whiskey, not pre-war stuff, old rinkum."

BANKERS ARE WITNESSES

Gardner Cassatt, a banker, testified that he paid $70 or $75 a case for gin and $92 for champagne. Charles Wheeler, banker and former polo player, testified he paid $71 a case for Scotch whiskey and 3 barcardi rum.

Cassatt and Wheeler were among those on the so-called list of patrons found when Kerper's place of business was raided.

Both bankers were accompanied by their attorneys. The latter took no part in the proceedings except to object. Assistant United tates Attorney Charles Denby, Jr., to make clear that the witnesses were in court under the compulsion of subpenaes.

The presence of attorneys in part with witness emphasized, in the opinion of court attaches, the generalized turn of affairs in enforcing the liquor laws in this section. For the first time here men of substance were called upon to reveal in open court their dealings with an alleged bootlegger.

$90 IN CHAMPAGNE

Cassatt and Wheeler testified that they had purchased liquor from Kerper, that it had been delivered to their homes and that they had paid for it in cash.

Harold W. Smith, a broker, said he had been directed to obtain liquor for medicinal purposes for his mother, and that he asked Kerper to get some good champagne and French brandy. Two cases of this were delivered, he testified, for which he paid $400.

Gordon G. Wilkonson testified that he had received three shipments of liquor at his home in Southwest Harbor, Maine, one of them being marked "olive oil."

B. & M. SPEEDS UP SERVICES

Improved fast service to Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill and other Massachusetts points, as well as to Maine and New Hampshire, is provided by the Boston & Maine Railroad's fall timetables' made public today in detail.

The new schedules are effective next Sunday with the change from daylight to standard time, and with a few exceptions all trains will be set back one hour. The detailed schedules show a general speeding up, made possible by a wide speed improvement to roadbed and equipment.

The Ambassador for Montreal will leave Boston at 9 a. m. instead of 7:30 a. m., and the Alouette, also for Montreal, will leave Boston at 10 a. m. and run on new fast time. Southbound the Alouette will be speeded to reach Boston at the more convenient time of 7:30 p. m.

The night train Down East to Maine and the Maritime Provinces, which has left for years at 7:40 p. m., under the new schedule three hours faster than before, will be known as the Gull and will leave at 10:10 p. m.

The Minute Man, Boston to Chicago, will continue to leave the new South Station at 5 p. m., and eastbound will continue to arrive in Boston at 7:25 p. m. The Berkshire Flyer, with Chicago connections, will leave Boston as before at 2:30 p. m., and eastbound will reach Boston at 2:30 p. m.

The Green Mountain Flyer, to Montreal, now leaving Boston at 7:15 a. m., will leave at 8:30 a. m. Southbound it will reach Boston at the more convenient time of 7:50 p. m., instead of 8:05 p. m., as at present.

FIEND BEGS FOR QUICK DEATH AS SLAYER OF BOY

Honolulu, Sept. 25 (AP)—His desire to plead guilty and accept quick justice for the slaying of Gill Jamieson denied by territorial law, Myles Yutaka Fukunaga today faced a speedy jury trial and equally swift justice in the island's fast moving kidnaping murder drama.

Less than six days after he kidnaped the 10-year-old son of Frederick Jamieson, Honolulu banker, from school and killed him, Fukunaga was indicted and arraigned before Circuit Judge Alva E. Steedman, who refused to accept the Japanese student's plea of "guilty, sir."

The judge advised the confessed slayer that territorial law forbade a plea of guilty to a first degree murder charge and required making of a defense. Accordingly, the judge said he would appoint a defense attorney today.

The slayer, who has told police he killed the boy within a few hours after the kidnaping, and before he collected $4000 ransom from the frenzied father, has expressed willingness to die for his crime. Local law prescribes that two days must elapse after conviction by a jury before sentence can be passed, and a 14 days' lapse between sentencing and execution, in case the extreme penalty is given.

Honolulu has not yet recovered from the shock caused by the confession of the mild-mannered Japanese, who has revealed himself as a student of the crimes of William Edward Hickman and the "thrill slayers" of Chicago, Leopold and Loeb.

The Fukunaga case is almost a replica of the Hickman case. Hickman, a brilliant student while in high school at Kansas City, chose to kidnap the child of a banker from school through a ruse, as did the Japanese slayer.

Likewise Hickman collected ransom from a distraught father after killing the child, and was trailed to his capture, as was Fukunaga, by identified money paid him.

Hickman is under sentence to die in California.

GRAIN DEALERS PREFER ARBITRATION TO COURTS

The general failure of court procedure in complicated commercial cases is causing thousands of American business men to turn to friendly arbitration for settlement of their disputes, Dr. Wesley A. Sturges, Yale law professor, declared today before the Grain Dealers' National Association at the Statler hotel.

Prof. Sturges pointed out that grain dealers began to arbitrate disputes in 1902 and have since developed the amicable settlement of controversies beyond that of any other trade association.

British Rail Lines Now Have 3rd Class Sleepers

London, Sept. 25 (AP)—Sleeping berths for third class passengers were inaugurated on the few long-distance railways of Great Britain last night, marking something of a revolution in travel from the far corners of Scotland, Wales and England.

British night trains have in the past carried on or two sleepers with a dozen third class day coaches crowded with men, women and children sleeping sitting bolt upright in the "carriages," or when the trains are jammed, sprawled in the corridors.

The innovation of third class sleepers enables the ordinary passenger to obtain a berth for seven shillings or $1.75. The compartments are fourbunk affairs without privacy.

Each berth was equipped with a pillow and a traveling rug—and in the morning there was tea, without which no real Englishman starts his day in good humor.

89 AUTOISTS IN QUINCY TRAP

In a drive against violators of automobile laws, 89 motorists were arrested in two hours by Motorcycle Officers Kent, Baker and McKay in Quincy today.

As a result of serious injuries sustained last week by Mrs. Norah Coyne of Beacon st., Brookline, a trap was installed at the corner of Hunt and Hancock sts., Quincy, today.

Douglas McNeil of Brookline st., Boston, was arrested on six charges —having no license, having no registration, failing to stop on command, drunkenness, operating under the influence of liquor, and speeding.

7515 REGISTER AT HARVARD

Harvard University smashed the initial registration record with the influx of 7515 students, and prepared to rush to a higher mark as late registrants arrived in Cambridge today. The mark for last year, 7414, was the former record.

The registration at Harvard itself failed to show any marked increase. The registration in the college by classes was 977 freshmen, 789 sophomores, 764 juniors and 657 seniors. There were in addition 87 out-of-course students and 37 special students.

The business school enrolled 132 more students in the new college buildings on the Allston side of the Charles river. This made a total of 839 for the year as compared to 707 a year ago.

The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences showed a slight increase with 746 registrations as compared with 721 in 1927.

The law school with 1512 students picking courses on the opening day was a half-dozen shy of the mark of last year. Both the medical and the dental schools, the Back Bay institutions of the university, showed a decrease. The Meds were 15 short of 1927 and the dental school lost 26.

A marked increase in the theological school was noted, the number swelling to more than twice the attendance of last year, when only 21 enrolled. There were 76 future clergymen on hand.

The engineering school had 249 on hand and the school of education 131 as compared with 269 a year ago for the former and 134 for the school of education.

DARROW COMMENTED ON HOOVER "BEFORE WAR"

Chicago, Sept. 25 (AP)—Clarence Darrow today refrained definitely to say ever told an editor that he had had "numerous drinks with Herbert Hoover," but said he had said something to a supporter of Hoover before the war "that might lead to an inference that I had had a drink with him."

Darrow's comment was in reply to a statement by Senator Bruce, Democrat, of Maryland who said he would present Mr. Darrow's "unequivocal denial" that he had taken drinks with the Republican nominee after Darrow had denied a statement to Bruce that the lawyer had said he had "several drinks" with Hoover.

LIST ELIGIBLE DRY AGENTS

Washington, Sept. 25 (AP)—A list of persons eligible for appointment as dry agents, investigators and attorneys was sent today to the administrators of all districts except New York by Prohibition Commissioner Doran. The list was certified to the prohibition bureau by the Civil Service Commission.

"The lists are not very satisfactory," Doran said, "and will not fill 50 per cent of the places permanently."

Commissioner Doran said that a new civil service examination for prohibition bureau employes had been prepared and will be held soon in every section of the country to fill vacancies and compile a waiting list from which further appointments will be made.

Doran favors the new examination, which, he said, stresses expedience of an officer as a qualifying factor over the technical character of the first preliminary examination which resulted in a large percentage of failures.

HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER WINS LONG CHASE

A hit-and-run motorist, who crashed into an automobile in Porter sq., Cambridge, is still at large today following a spectacular case of nearly a mile.

Almost a score of patrolmen and several hundred pedestrians participated in the chase, and shots were fired into the air in an attempt to effect his capture.

Though pursued by machine and by persons on foot, the motorist jumped from the automobile on Hancock st., Cambridge, and made good his escape, while the throng searched backyards and alleyways for trace of him.

Traffic Officer Roy Hughes, stationed on Massachusetts ave. at Porter sq., saw a small car careen across a safety platform, narrowly miss several persons and strike an auto operated out of Somerville ave. by William H. Collins of 24 Lexington ave., Somerville.

The collision was slight and neither car appeared to be greatly damaged, but the small car raced away down Somerville ave. Hughes leaped from his traffic box to a passing automobile and gave chase, while several other motorists did likewise. Speeding down the avenue, Hughes pulled his gun and fired several shots in the air to warn the fleeing man.

The shots attracted scores of other persons and telephone calls were made to the Cambridge and Somerville police for help by spectators. In a few minutes wagon-loads of officers were rushed to the vicinity.

Hughes picked up Patrolman Fred Gardiner and the two continued the chase through Somerville ave., Elm st. and back into Hancock st. As they drew near the speeding car, the driver pulled into the curb and leaped out. Hughes and Gardiner followed and began a search of the section augmented by other officers and persons living in the vicinity.

After a futile search of nearly an hour, the officers gave up and returned to the car, where they claim they found a bottle of wine.

New Jersey Public Utility Information Committee

6-D-3

January 21, 1926.

Mr. Geo. N. Tidd, President,
American Gas & Electric Company,
30 Church Street,
New York City.

Dear Sir:

The attached confidential report has just come over my desk and I thought you would be interested in the same and am enclosing it herewith.

While this municipal plant propaganda is not of an alarming situation, it is at the same time one which we should of course keep before us. I note between the lines a growing tendency on the part of these municipal plant advocates to eliminate power house worries by buying current at wholesale. It really does simplify their problem tremendously and I am not altogether sure that it is not proper thing for us in any event to take on a power contract to wholesale to any municipal electric plant.

In this connection Sea Isle City has been reporting substantial gains in its net earnings since they have been buying power from us. I have instructed Mr. Swift to undertake to keep the demand up to the very highest point so that their power cost will be as much as possible.

Very truly yours,

CHW/F

Enc.

HOW private power corporations may throttle competition from city-owned plants giving cheaper service is told here by C. H. Rowell, Atlantic City Electric Company official and president of the New Jersey Electric Association. Some city plants are limiting themselves to distributing current to their citizens, buying it from private companies instead of generating it, Howell points out. This helps the city plants, so he is not sure it is "the proper thing" to furnish them any current. He has directed the company's business manager to act toward the successful Sea Isle City plant "so that their power cost will be as much as possible." Howell's letter is an official exhibit in the Federal Trade Commission utilities investigation.

CHARGE POWER TRUSTS FORCE HIGHER FARES

ords showed. Since then fares have been pushed steadily upward by highly organized campaigns before state commissions and the courts.

New York traction interests are fighting for a seven-cent fare. And those in Washington, Baltimore and many other cities are reaching toward the ten-cent level.

PROPAGANDA REVEALED.

A paragraph in the minutes of a Texas propaganda bureau meeting on April 13, 1923, told of the campaign's start. It read: "St. Clair told of work now starting to get the idea that a five-cent fare is not generally possible in the minds of the people. Material is being sent to companies with plans and copy for an advertising campaign.

"He urged the State committee to co-operate to get the traction companies to advertise this subject and said that expenditure of three-quarters to one per cent of the gross is about right for street railway companies."

Labert St. Clair is director of advertising for the American Electric Railway Association.

PATRONS PAY BILLS

Utility patrons foot the bills for these campaigns to increase the charges against them, the commission's record shows. The outlay is charged to "operating expenses," becoming part of the basis of rates.

Two weeks after the fare campaign plan was outlined the Texas committee was working to discredit city-owned street car systems in Seattle and Detroit, because their existence provoked comparisons of rates.

The minutes said:

"The committee discussed developments in municipal experiments with utilities and suggested that the bureau keep informed especially in the matter of the Detroit and Seattle traction situations that are affording much evidence of the failure of municipalities in utility business."

In other states the electric power bureaus circulated propaganda for higher rates.

REACHES SCHOOLS

Later Labert St. Clair's traction interests worked with the electric power and gas organizations to reshape teaching about government, as well as industry, in the public schools, according to the records.

A memorandum on a Texas meeting of January 29, 1925, read:

"The committee instructed that further activity be undertaken by the director looking to some plan for securing proper presentation of the problems of industry and government in the text books published for use in the public schools, and directed that correspondence and consultation with other directors and public relations men in the several utilities be undertaken to this end.

"In this connection the director has a letter from Labert St. Clair, director of advertising of the American Electric Railway Association in which he states that he and C. W. Person, advertising manager of the American Gas Association, and George P. Oxley of the National Electric Light Association, are arranging for a discussion of textbooks at a meeting of directors which they are arranging to be held on February 16 in connection with the mid-year meeting of the American Railway Association.

"His suggestion with reference to textbooks is that the directors should at this time confer with reference to the movement which the National Association started some time ago along this line."

PALESTINE WAR DUE TO SCREEN

Jerusalem, Palestine, Sept. 25 (AP)—Disturbances marked the observance of the Day of Atonement at the famous Wailing Wall, the holiest place in the world of Jewry and the only remains of Solomon's temple.

While hundreds were engaged in the day's prayer a troop of Anglo Arab police appeared and ordered the removal of a screen set up to separate men and women according to religious law. On the people refusing, the police battered the devout and dragged several along the ground, the Jews becoming extremely excited.

Meanwhile excitement spread among Jews throughout the country and the Jewish National Council was convened. The chief points were informed today by the acting high commissioner that the ruling was caused by a demand of Amin Husseini, chairman of the Supreme Moslem Council and extreme Arab leader, concerning the position of

FLOOD IMPERILS SO. CAROLINA

Washington, Sept. 25—The flood menace along the eastern South Carolina shores was today reported as increasingly serious. Rep. Thomas S. McMillan of Charleston, S. C., in a message to Secretary of War Davis said:

"Flood conditions in coastal South Carolina is desperate. Families have been driven from their homes on account of high water. Crops have been seriously damaged, some completely lost.

"It is requested that the War Department send immediately flood expert to make a survey."

Secretary Davis at once sent Col. Henry O. Jewett, corps of engineers, to Charleston to make a survey.

One of the first definite moves toward imminent rehabilitation of the storm-swept area of southeast Florida will amount to a virtual census continued by the Red Cross, whose officials have fixed the storm dead at approximately 2300, adding that the exact total never will be known.

The crying need of survivors in the Lake Okeechobee sector is an occupation. Their farms were ruined and those who could go back to work have no seed to plant.

The Red Cross has issued orders to several dealers at Okeechobee city to furnish seed to the farmers who can get to their land.

Raskob, wife of the chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Sentence was deferred until William Goldberg, alleged accomplice in the blackmail scheme, can be brought to trial. During his admission of the crime, Mooney said he had been arrested in 1919 and in 1921 in Delaware County on charges of false pretence involving a stock-selling transaction.

DEMANDS POLLS BE KEPT OPEN TILL 8 P. M.

Councillor Albert L. Fish of Ward 15, Dorchester, announced he would vigorously oppose any movement to close the polls at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the election in November. He said he was in favor of an 8 o'clock closing.

"Fully 50 per cent of the voters," he said, "have no opportunity to vote until after 5 o'clock and it is my contention that the City Council should look after the interests of this great body of voters."

PARIS ANGRY OVER U. S. PUBLICATION OF SECRET NAVAL PACT

THREATENS TO EXPEL WRITER

Drastic Investigation Is Demanded; Revelation by Ex-Kaiser Recalled

The newspaper furore in Europe, and especially in Paris, over the publication of the official French Foreign Office letter to French ambassadors regarding the Franco-British agreement, prompts Universal Service to make this announcement:

The source from which the copy of the document in question was obtained disposes of the charge that there was anything irregular or unethical about it, or that Universal Service was not properly entitled to transmit it for publication as highly important news in the United States. Universal Service believes and contends that it has performed an extremely patriotic service.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN
Universal Service Special Cable.

Paris, Sept. 25—For the third day since the text of the famed Franco-English naval accord was revealed exclusively by Universal Service, the newspapers are throbbing with comment.

The French reaction ranges from the frankly hostile with threats of expulsion from France for the Universal Service correspondent to the harshly critical with demands for investigation at Quai D'Orsay itself.

Leading editorials in the semi-official Temps, the semi-official Journal Des Debats, and every Paris newspaper, from the Communistic Humanite to the extremely Conservative Action Francaise, have for the first time found common ground in condemning unreservedly the inopportune publication of the accord. Temps says:

MAY BLOCK PACT

"The publication of this document by American newspapers constitutes a supreme maneuver to try and block the French-English compromise. A document that has been obtained by reproachable means, which are condemned by the most elementary honest, is used in a campaign to cast aspersions upon the absolute sincerity with which England and France have tried to conciliate their various naval theses.

"What must be remembered in this incident is the fact that the publication of a confidential diplomatic document has rendered more difficult the negotiations between the governments."

Humanite demands an investigation at the office of Universal Service here and adds that the expulsion of the correspondent is the only course to be pursued, declaring:

"The Paris correspondent of Universal Service will doubtless be called to make explanations concerning the origin of this document. It is even said that if his explanations are not satisfactory he will be invited to leave French territory immediately."

Petit Parisien says:

"Universal Service sent to American newspapers a document regarding the Franco-British accord. Although the publication of this document in no way embarrasses the negotiations regarding naval armaments, the French minister of foreign affairs considered it was incomprehensible that such a document could be disclosed without his consent.

PROBE IS ORDERED

"Therefore, the foreign minister has ordered an investigation to discover the author of this indiscretion."

Every newspaper has reprinted large excerpts from Universal Service revelations and several have reprinted the document in full. La Liberte says:

"We would prefer not to believe it but, nevertheless, it is true that the publication in American newspapers of the Quai D'Orsay document begins to assume the proportions of a veritable affair of state.

"Not since the sensational declarations of Kaiser Wilhelm II to the correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, and that was a long time ago, has such a sensation been caused by journalistic indiscretion.

"What is necessary to know in this: How did this document fall into the hands of an American journalist? However powerful may be the newspapers served by Universal Service, they certainly are not equipped for this kind of diplomatic police.

"Either one thing or the other—the secret code of Quai D'Orsay has become known and it is necessary to change it immediately, or it is necessary to know how this document leaked out.

"The most favorable hypothesis is that the Republican party is making use of this indiscretion for its own purposes against the Democratic candidate.

"Another lesson is to be learned from the study of the text revealed by the American newspapers—France is now running the risk of entering into conflict with the United States because of the state of Anglo-American relations. It will be necessary to pay attention to the consequences of whatever position we take in this affair."

The leading editorial in today's Journal Des Debats is as follows:

"It was the correspondent of Universal Service in Paris who procured this document. The authenticity of this note being admitted it is necessary to investigate how this confidential text could have been obtained.

FEARS COMPLICATION

"Such actions are grave; the situation would become intolerable if governments could no longer correspond freely with their foreign representatives without being exposed to the danger of seeing such correspondence reproduced in daily newspapers.

"Paris and London have simply offered to America and the other powers the bases for naval discussions. If the United States don't approve, they have only to say so and all will be said and done. But it is necessary to regret the divulging, which can only complicate the situation."

The Action Francaise, mouthpiece of the Royalist section of the French public comments:

"The responsibility of Philine Berthelot is gravely engaged in incidents which may follow as a result of the publication of Universal Service's documents. It is evident that the publication by Universal Service happens at the right moment, for it is announced that a disarmament conference will meet in Geneva no matter what happens, at the begining of 1929.

"Naturally the Americans* are right in refusing to accept any accords which are directed against them, and Germany rejoices at this situation. Will Premier Poincare dare to interfere again, as once before, and take the necessary measures against Berthelot for his imprudence and carelessness?"

"CHARGES POLITICS"

The newspaper Matin claims the publication of the terms of the naval agreement in America was to serve the election campaign "with the greatest possible publicity."

Matin maintains that the document, as published, was the fruit of diplomatic negotiations which were felt to be indispensable by both France and England.

"It was an American delegate at Geneva, during the five power conference, who first suggested that the respective countries conduct private negotiations between themselves since it was impossible to agree in group," continued Matin.

"Besides, since the disagreement was originally caused by discord between France and England it was the most natural thing in the world that these powers should search for common ground."

The newspaper L'Oeuvre commented:

"Nobody in France, since the signing of the Kellogg pact, doubted America's ambition to impose peace upon the world, but since the ratification of the naval accord, which has a decided tendency towards material disarmament, we are obliged to state that America has started war against this instrument of peace. Permit us to say we fail to understand it."

Le Jour de Paris said:

"If America, irritated by the Anglo-French naval accord, refuses to attend a preparatory disarmament conference, what will happen to the conference?

"Neither England nor Japan will care to make promises without the United States, therefore, land and naval disarmament will be obliged to become separated which is altogether impracticable."

22 FIRE DEAD IN ONE GRAVE

Madrid, Sept. 25 (AP)—Twenty-two of more than 100 victims of the theater fire and panic in Novedades were buried today in a common grave.

Government and diplomatic officials, led by Primo de Riviera and the mayor of Madrid, headed the half-mile long funeral procession.

Thousands of the poor, the men clad in their working clothes, lined the streets. Weeping women and wailing children added to the manifestation of sorrow. A special plot was provided in the cemetery for the huge grave.

Workers were still searching the ruins today. Their discoveries accentuated the desperate means by which the trapped audience sought to gain exit from the playhouse. Knife wounds on several bodies showed some had tried to fight their way to the exits.

X-Ray Shows Up Yolk Turning to Chick

Berkeley, Cal., Sept. 25 (INS)—Moving pictures of a bone in process of knitting together; of the living, growing, embryo of an egg; of the inner column of a rose as it expands from bud to full blown flower.

Science has made all this possible and opened alluring new fields of scientific research through the invention of the first X-ray moving picture camera, it was disclosed today at the University of California.

The inventor is Arthur C. Pillsbury, photographer-botanist, already widely known for his success in his chosen field.

He has successfully photographed a growing rose over a period of 72 hours. His intricate camera with its co-ordinated apparatus for operating the X-ray produced a film of the rose in which the growing inner flower is plainly shown.

This, according to Pillsbury, is the first successful X-ray moving picture. He predicted that the new camera will prove immensely valuable in medical research.

It will be possible to watch on the screen a bone in process of knitting by using rats and other small animals with fractured bones.

Scientists will be able to observe for the first time the interior of a life cell in its strange process of development.

YOM KIPPUR CLOSES BROOKLINE SCHOOL

Because of the large number of Jews enrolled there, Devotion school, in Harvard st., Brookline, was closed yesterday to give the children of that race an opportunity to participate in Yom Kippur services. Brookline school officials figured attendance at the school would be so small on account of the fact that a majority of the pupils are of Jewish extraction that it would not be worth while to keep it open for the small number of others that would be present.

Demands Germany Quit League of Nations

Berlin, Sept. 25 (Universal)—Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations is demanded by the Deutsche Allgemeine, which is close to Dr. Stresseman, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

France and England have formed a more far-reaching agreement to dominate the world than is contained in the naval agreement, the Allgemeine asserts, adding:

"We must withdraw from intimate association with France and England in the League of Nations, because in this trio we are not an equal partner and delivered to the discretion of the real big powers."

Berlin Sees Threat to U. S. in Franco-British Pact

Berlin, Sept. 25—America is on the lookout and on guard. That is the meaning of the Franco-British naval agreement, declares the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, powerful organ of German big industry and banks, and whose editorial policy is strongly influenced by Foreign Minister Stresemann.

"No tone of sanctimonious surprise over the publication of this document," the paper says, "can wipe out the fact that the Entente opposition to the United States has become considerably greater. "After the English had been given to understand that they could not deny the authenticity of the publication, the French also gave in.

IN PART ONLY

"The French instructions as published do not contain all the contents of the Franco-British secret agreement. For instance, there is no word in it about the advantages France is getting from England, but the proceedings at Geneva in the last few days have shown that France is at the height of her military supremacy and in absolute possession of the security of English support, leaving no doubt about the contents of the English obligations.

"This certainly increases the suspicion of Americans who correctly surmise that the French instruction to Ambassadors represents only a part of the secret arrangement that directly concerns the United States. The most dangerous parts of the secret agreement will not be made known, and nobody can expect that they will be made known by the inquiry of the United States in Paris and London. The minutest disclosures must be judged as a warning that the United States is on the lookout."

SOCIALIST COMMENT

The communist Montags Zeitung declares:

"The disclosed secret document is of the greatest importance. It shows the working class that Poincreis governments continue to plan new mass murders."

Der Montag, Nationalist newspaper, says:

"The naval agreement is the greatest obstacle to calling a conference in Geneva on the reduction of armaments."

The provincial newspapers of Germany, representing a powerful sectional opinion, also have been stirred by publication of the secret document. The Konigsberger "Allgemeine Zeitung," the most influential newspaper of East Prussia, declares the publication is "The most important political event for many years, perhaps since the World War." The Journal adds:

"While in Geneva the debate about the reduction of armaments comes to an end with fine words and resolutions on paper, the publication of the contents of the Franco-British naval agreement by American newspapers bursts like a bomb.

"This agreement between England and France is the one real factor that has been hidden behind conferences, speeches and interviews, but which has governed the whole world policy during the last few months."

POLITICAL HORIZON CLOUDED

The "Leipziger Houste Nachrichten," the biggest newspaper in south central Germany, comments:

"This sensational publication proves that the English and French naval agreement is aimed against the United States of America, the formidableness of which can hardly be imagined."

The "Boersen Zeitung," financial organ, says:

"The unpleasant excitement in London and Paris does not seem to emanate from the publication of the secret agreement only. Perhaps Washington has got wind of certain other procedures behind the scenes in the English world policies.

"Certainly the political horizon is more clouded than it has been for a long time, and the quiet development of Western culture again is threatened."

Don't Fool Yourself, Says Ellery Sedgwick

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—The pies "Let us vote as our conscience dictate," was made by Ellery Sedgwick, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, in a radio talk. The Democratic national committee, in making public the text, said Sedgwick wished to emphasize that y"Studies in Temperament," the title of his paper, expressed his personal views and not the position of the publication.

"Let us vote for Hoover or for Smith as men," the editor urged after contrasting the personalities of the major parties' presidential candidates. "Let us honestly prefer the Republican promise of good business or the Democratic plea for fair dealing. Let us vote to continue our experiment in prohibition or put more temperance first. Let us save the farmer by what way we prefer. But let us not try to fool our own souls by voting before the world for a secret reason which the more decent of us dare scarcely even murmur to ourselves."

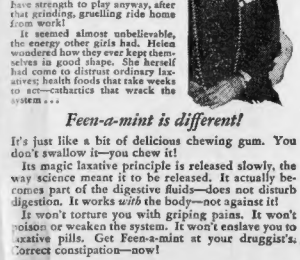
STRATON TELLS IT TO VOTERS IN TEXAS

Beaumont, Tex., Sept. 25 (AP)—Despite intermittent heckling from his audience, Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of New York, reiterated here his statement that "Governor Smith is the deadliest foe in America of the forces of moral progress and political wisdom."

The pastor replied with wit and vizor to various persons who heckled him as he spoke. One woman who shouted "Robinson's all right," was told "we will see in November."

He charged that Smith had made "a covenant with evil and league with evil by failing into the machinations of Tammany."

Helen was pitied.



BUT all the same people left her out of things—Walt hadn't called for weeks now . . . And she didn't have strength to play anyway, after that grinding, gruelling ride home from work!

It seemed almost unbelievable, the energy other girls had. Helen wondered how they ever kept themselves in good shape. She herself had come to distrust ordinary laxatives; health foods that take weeks to act—cathartics that wreck the system . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

It's just like a bit of delicious chewing gum. You don't swallow it—you chew it!

Its magic laxative principle is released slowly, the way science meant it to be released. It actually becomes part of the digestive fluids—does not disturb digestion. It works with the body—not against it!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't poison or weaken the system. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Get Feen-a-mint at your druggist's. Correct constipation—now!

SMITH HOPES FOR VOTES OF PROGRESSIVES

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Helena, Mont., Sept. 25—Governor Smith turned eastward today in high hopes that the great goal of his western venture—the winning of the old LaFollette independent vote of 1924 in the Northwest—has been achieved.

The Governor himself made no claims, but seemed confident, primarily because of assurances from old LaFollette lieutenants, including Senator Burton K. Wheeler, who ran with "Fighting Bob," that the Smith speeches on farm relief, the power trust, religious intolerance and the Republican record of the last seven years, have solidified the progressive vote of the Northwest behind his candidacy.

Democratic leaders are supremely confident of Montana. This seems justified, for the Democratic organization here in this normally independent State is functioning smoothly and efficiently.

Senator Wheeler introduced Governor Smith to his Helena audience and Senator Thomas J. Walsh led 5,000 people in applause at the conclusion of the speech. Both will travel with the Smith special as far as St. Paul, Minn.

Senator Walsh gave further evidence of whole-hearted support of his pre-convention rival in a statement with indirect allusions to Hoover broadcast throughout Montana.

It was entitled "Ten Reasons Why I Am Support ng Governor Smith." One of these was:

"Because there ought to be a general housecleaning in Washington—not to be expected from one who, closely associated with Fall, Daugherty, Forbes, Miller and Denby, was never moved to utter a word concerning their villainies either before or after they were exposed."

Another was:

"Because I prefer one who has been repeatedly honored by the electorate to one who has filled official position only by grace of the appointive power."

Smith's program today called for a long journey through Montana eastward, with stops at Butte, Bozeman, Livingston and Billings. Tonight he will enter North Dakota and stop at Mandan, Bismarck, Jamestown, Valley City and Fargo tomorrow. The Governor's next major speech will be at St. Paul Thursday night.

LINKS GUNNESS MURDERESS TO DEATH FARM

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 25 (INS)—Is Mrs. Belle Gunness, internationally notorious murderess of a generation ago, alive and involved in California's newest crime mystery?

This was the startling question flung at the police here today in connection with their continued investigation into the Wineville "murder farm."

Mrs. Gunness, credited with having slain upward of 100 men, women and children upon her "murder farm" at La Porte, Ind., for the past 20 years was supposed to have died by the ax with which she killed her victims. But J. Clark Sellers, criminologist of this city, has revealed that he is in possession of knowledge to the effect Indiana authorities, as recently as January 20, 1923, were of opinion that Mrs. Gunness was alive.

He said he had been informed by a woman who knew Mrs. Gunness in La Porte that she had seen the latter in San Diego.

According to the police, Mrs. Northcott is about the age that Mrs. Gunness would be were she alive. Despite the fact that the woman accused in the present "murder farm" case has acquaintances in Canada who assert they have known her over a long period of years and that she cannot possibly be Mrs. Gunness, the authorities announce they will investigate.

Mother and Son to Be Sent Back to U. S. for Trial

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 25 (INS)—Gordon Stewart Northcott, "Alien Man" and alleged slayer of children, being held here as the Riverside "murder farm" suspect, was today released at Oakalla Prison, only to be rearrested by the Dominion of Canada on a provincial warrant issued on demand of the United States charging murder.

At the same time, it was reported, similar action was being taken against Mrs. Louise Northcott, mother of the accused slayer.

The move signified that the Canadian Governor-General had honored President Coolidge's request, transmitted through Secretary of State Kellogg, that the mother and son be formally held for extradition to California.

GOODWIN WILL IGNORE G. O. P. CONVENTION

two major events caused something akin to a sensation on Beacon Hill today when the news trickled in.

Goodwin's after the primary statement in which he warned Republican leaders that the more than 166,000 votes he received in the primary Governor would demand for a correction of abuses, was hauled out and studied.

Years were levied that the statement meant nothing less than a threat to throw his influence in the election to the Democratic nominee, Gen. Charles H. Cole.

Republican leaders had been prepared to hold out the olive branch to Goodwin following a meeting held in the Hotel Bellevue late yesterday afternoon.

Goodwin was to be urged to take a prominent part in the convention deliberations and every effort was to be made to coudilate him and bring him into the fold. Following that meeting National Committeeman Louis K. Liggett left on a trip to Pittsfield to arrange campaign dates in western Massachusetts and to talk over party finances.

U. S. Girl to Wed Briton

London, Sept. 25 (INS)—The engagement was announced today of Helen Morris Janney, of Philadelphia, and John H. Leche, first secretary to the British Legation at Berne, Switzerland.

Kemal Teaches the Turks to Crease Trousers

London, Sept. 25 (INS)—Mustapha Kemal Pasha, as he is described by Miss Grace Ellison, the traveller, in her book, "Turkey Today," has shattered all the terrors that clung around the life of the old Ottoman Empire. He has:

Abolished the harem, the veil and polygamy.

Had a translation made of H. G. Wells' "Outline of History," for use in the Turkish schools.

Taught Turkey to wear western clothes and to crease its trousers.

Miss Ellison, in discussing the president of the Turkish Republic, said:

"He is a superman. At our last meeting he gazed at me with the strangest eyes ever possessed by a man. Afterward I learned that sometimes those eyes seemed to be the deepest blue and again would be a steely gray.

7 VOLUNTEER BLOOD FOR PARALYSIS SERUM

Thus far seven persons have responded to the call made last Friday by Dr. George H. Bigelow, State health commissioner, for those who have recovered from infantile paralysis to give a small amount of their blood for a serum useful in preventive cases.

Dr. Elliott Luther, special investigator for the State Public Health Department, will call shortly upon those who have volunteered.

PHIPPS FIGHTS SEARCH OF HIS LUGGAGE

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—The baggage of United States Senator Lawrence C. Phipps of Colorado was thoroughly searched when he arrived on the French liner Ile de France today despite his protests.

The Republican Senator told customs inspectors that his 17 pieces of luggage contained only trifling foreign purchases, all of which he had properly declared, but at the direction of a deputy collector of customs everything was opened on the pier and carefully examined.

Despite his controversy with the customs men Phipps found time to speak of politics with ship reporters. He defended the Republican policy for leasing Colorado water power to private interests and said that its present high state of development was due to private enterprise.

"Governor Smith," he said, "is making a bugaboo out of the water power control. If the water power development had been left to the government, we would never have gotten going as rapidly as we have. It should no the a question of politics, whether Democratic or Republican, but of sound business policy."

INFANTILE FATAL TO WATERTOWN CHILD

The sixth death from infantile paralysis in Watertown during the recent outbreak which caused the health authorities to order the schools to remain closed until Oct. 1, was reported, according to Dr. Thomas C. Quinn, M. The latest victim is James Farrar, 10, of 6 Cross st., and it was the 64th case to be recorded in that town.

(International News Service)

Washington, Sept. 25—Responding to a deluge of requests from party leaders all over the country, Herbert Hoover will deliver a number of prepared speeches during the last 10 days of the campaign, while on his way home to vote, it was learned today.

The Republican nominee will leave Washington about October 8, en route to Stanford University, California to set an example for the rest of America by voting in his own campaign. His advisers have just begun consideration of his itinerary and it probably will not be announced until just prior to his departure. A score of cities in a dozen States have invited the nominee to pay them a visit.

Hoover probably will make four speeches on the trip home. At this time, his advisers favor Indianapolis, Chicago or St. Louis, Minneapolis or St. Paul and Denver as the best points for their delivery.

CLOSE DRIVE IN WEST

The nominee in addition will close his campaign with another speech in San Francisco, either on the Saturday or the Monday preceding the election. This speech will be broadcast into every State of the Union.

Some of the Hoover managers have urged him to invade the border States on his way home, with a stop either in Louisville, Ky., or in St. Louis. If he should visit Louisville, he undoubtedly will make one of his set speeches in Chicago in preference to a stop in St. Louis. If the Louisville suggestion is vetoed, there is a possibility he will then visit St. Louis.

The Republican nominee likewise is considering an extension of his campaign in the east. He has received dozens of invitations but at the outset of the campaign, he announced he would make but four speeches in the east.

He delivered one at Newark, the second is scheduled for Elizabethton, Tenn., on October 6, while he will visit New York city on October 17 and Boston the following week.

WARN AGAINST SILENCE

The Hoover strategists have decided in the interim between October 6 and 17. They have told him that a silence over 11 days in the heat of the campaign is poor politics and may hurt his chances for election. As a result, he probably will speak somewhere in the north during the week of October 7 to 13.

Baltimore may get this assignment, although Detroit and Cleveland have been suggested.

The nominee meanwhile worked upon his Elizabethton, Tenn., speech. He will leave here late the night of Friday, October 5, stop at Bristol, Tenn., the next morning and arrive in Elizabethton in time for lunch. He will be the guest of honor at a historical pageant there at 2 p. m. and will deliver his speech at 3 p. m.

After his speech he will motor to Johnson City, visit the old Soldiers' Home there and board his train for the return trip to Washington.

JOAN crouched in her corner, looking soundly out of the window with dim, unseeing eyes.

Every turn of the wheels was taking her farther from Bill Ewers, minute measured to why am I going have to walk back. At a station where the train stopped she got up, stepped to the door. I'm not going back to Bill Ewers. I'm—just going to work up and down" she said, in a small, cracked voice.

A hand touched hers. Mrs. Marden's voice purred. "It's so warm. Let's go into the station. I think we can get an ice cream cone."

"And sweets. At once!" They had to hurry to get to the train.

Joan sank down in the corner again. The hours sped by. I'll have to work, she thought. I'll have to work, and I can get a job to do it. She could do it. And—walk so far.

It was dark when Mrs. Marden's taxi at last came to a standstill before the Boston Beach cottage. Joan, too, was tired, but she got out and followed Mrs. Marden.

"Well, here we are," Mrs. Marden said, cheerfully. "It's been a good day for bathing. It was a little chilly in the early morning, but it got warm enough by noon. Now you must have something to eat. I'll get it ready in a jiffy. Then you can go to bed early. You look tired."

Joan followed Mrs. Marden into the cottage. It was a small, neat place, with a kitchenette at the back. Mrs. Marden bustled about, getting out food, setting the table. Joan sat down, watching her. She felt numb, tired, and yet she knew that she could not sleep. She must think, plan what she was to do.

"Now, you sit right there," Mrs. Marden said, when the meal was ready. "I'll wash the dishes. Then you can go to bed early. You look tired."

Crowd Watches as Patriot's Grave Is Being Filled In

Hundreds of curious persons stopped to gaze into the old granary burial ground in Tremont st today when they sighted two caretakers digging in the grave adjoining that of Samuel Otis, orator and patriot of Revolutionary times.

The caretakers, however, were only removing soil and filling a depression in the grave, whose headstone is so weather beaten beaten that it is undecipherable. Then the sod was replaced.

A two-speed motor generator with its auxiliary equipment has been installed in the Dorchester substation of the company which produces the high frequencies of 220 cycles per second to turn the lights on and 400 to turn them off, and these waves are sent through the line by one of the wires to the poles, which is the chief difference between this and ordinary lighting.

In the case of each lamppost is a "receiving set" tuned to "pick up" the low frequency substation so that when the 220 cycle waves go out over the wires at "lighting up time," the receiving sets or coils in each of the lights and the lamps on at once. If not, [illegible]

TO HURRY INSURANCE RULING

Court action on the attack by the insurance companies on the Massachusetts compulsory automobile insurance rates was speeded up today by Supreme Court Justice Crosby and it is likely that the case will be argued next month before the full bench.

There are fundamental points of law to be determined, Judge Crosby was informed by Asst. Attorney General Hilton Clapp, who suggested that preliminaries be completed as quickly as possible and the case set before the full court.

Judge Crosby then asked Deputy Judge Frederic H. Dewey and Judge R. Hall representing the insurance companies, if counsel desired to be heard by the attorney-general before the citizens of the state would put out jointly raise the question that the full court must answer and the two attorneys replied in the affirmative.

Braves, Coming Back to Life, Likely to Wreck Pirate Third Place Dreams

THE Braves seem to be getting ready for the Cardinals. They intend to settle the National League pennant at the Wigwam, to end the week and the season, and are practicing now on the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A ... game with the Bucos will be played ... afternoons and if ... anything like the opening two bits, last week, fans will have a thrilling session.

The Pirates have been going great guns and they were looking for soft pickings in this setting. But the pesky Braves have decided to play baseball for a while, so the Corsairs are just ready to give up their dreams of third place.

Passing Game to be Big Harvard Weapon This Year

GILLIGAN, QUARTER, TO TOSS

Crimson Has Pair of Fine Passing Threats in Tom Gilligan and Jo Potter

Although the forward pass has played a minor part in the late Harvard football scrimmages, it is no secret that Harvard will use the aerial game as its main offensive weapon against Springfield here a week from Saturday.

Before Coach Arnold Horween assigned Tommy Gilligan Newton star, the varsity quarterback post in line of the now crippled Marty Colored.

Gilligan, despite his all-around football ability, is at his best on the booting end of a forward pass. He now ranks as Harvard's best passer even preceding Jo Potter.

Gilligan will direct the Harvard passing and the Crimson will use Gilligan and the pass as its basis, if not its biggest threat, throughout the season.

Gilligan has been reporting early at each session and has been drilled by the Crimson overhead game.

Harvard has always relied on the pass, even in its worst seasons. But Harvard never has had as powerful pass master, if that is considered a year. Gilligan and Potter are passers par excellence, and a potent punch. Frank Rydard and Jack Neal also have a fine record at passing to date.

Those two ultra-fast receivers, Neal and Rydard, will be ready to open up back in the fall to a position any one of two men on the line. Joe Zabilski, a veteran who has also Harvard's move on the pass, is a capable receiver.

Injuries have caused Coach Horween's line to look somewhat thin this year. Bucky Walter and Jack Neal at end, Barrett and Clark at tackle, Trainer and Parkinson at guard, Lockman at center, with a flock of backfield quarters composed of Gilligan, French, Guarnaccia and Harper.

DURAY BENT ON SETTING NEW SPEED MARK

Leon Duray, holder of the world record for automobile speed on curved tracks is paying the penalty for excessive crowding of his motor. In his search for speed and more speed, Duray finally put his motor to the cracking point, and now he is faced with the possibility of being unable to participate in the 200-mile sweepstakes at Rockingham Park October 13.

The supercharges in these high-speed chariots are geared to 6500 revolutions per minute, but Duray forcing it to the utmost, has wound his up to a point where he was getting 7200 and even more. Other drivers for long have been predicting it would crack and at last it has happened.

But Duray is not disheartened. He immediately put in long distance calls to the Miller Engine Company, Los Angeles, to Cleveland and Detroit for auxiliary parts, and expects to have the stuff to assemble for a new chariot in time to have it well broken in before the day of the race. It is a race against time, and there are many who believe he can't do it in those who believe he can.

The will be no tears shed if he doesn't make it among the other drivers, for he is too tough an opponent for many of them, to look to this race to boost their point totals for the season. It is the closing event of the 1928 season, and it means much to a large field who have seen Keech and Duray grab the top laurels in a majority of the events.

This race also marks the return of Harry Hartz to the racing scene, and he will be warmly welcomed by drivers and public alike. One of the most popular drivers in the country, his accident, which occurred a year ago at this track, was the cause of much genuine sorrow among his fellows behind the wheel.

Hartz has many friends and admirers in this section, and when he wheels his racing machine to the starting point he is certain to be warmly greeted.

The ticket sale for the event starts today, with tickets to be had at The Boston Automobile Club.

By Jack Conway

JACK BRITTON, 43 years young, pushed his head through the ropes at the Crescent A. C. of Lynn and helloed Mr. Boston after having handed Micky Sears of East Boston a rather decisive drubbing in their 10-round bout.

"I only had one worry during the bout," said Britton gleefully as he was wondering if somebody would find the gold plate with one of my store teeth which was knocked from my mouth during a mixup at close quarters in the second round."

"The tooth was returned to our corner at the opening of the 7th round," piped up Dan Morgan as he fished the exhibit out of his vest. I asked.

"That tooth cost me $200 which is a lot of dough to me nowadays," resumed Britton. "A swell dentist made it up for me when I was down in Florida a few years ago. That was the last time I got in Dixie. I could buy a lot of beef with the chunk of dough that took away from me that time, so some of it will undoubtedly be spent."

A couple of cops had just come to make a hole through the crowd and they told Britton everything was all set for him to start for his dressing room.

"What a champion I'm going to make here," said a young man who is such a schoonere in this fistic racket.

"You said something," piped in Mr. Boston, "I have looked on a great many welterweights in my day, and some of them ranked with Britton. He was the cock of the walk."

I ASKED Mr. Boston what he thought of the fight.

"I didn't know there was a fight," replied the veteran. "That fellow Britton just didn't let Sears get started. He rained more gloves on Mickey than the latter thought existed. I scored every round for the old master. The win ran his string up to 13 since he started his comeback drive. Jack can still flick these cuffs in, tough kids who don't know too much about the fine points of the game.

"I noticed Bobby Goldman, Al Mello's manager, in a ringside seat. Bobby was getting a line on the old champion.

"I do not believe it would be good matchmaking for Dan Morgan to put Britton against Mello. The latter is too stiff a puncher for one of Britton's years. Let Jack stay in there with the lesser lights.

"LOUIS PENNEY, matchmaker at the Crescent A. C. had a rather large evening. All of his friends and enemies in the pugilistic racket were on hand asking for choice seats. There is something about the old-time boxers which draws out a real membership of Cauliflower, Inc.

"As the cash customers were also very hit as interested in the show, Louis was perfectly happy. The house was jammed to the rafters. As I watched a fine show and noticed the enthusiasm of the crowd, I could not help but think of the red hot fights that the Commercial A. C. used to stage in Dowdoin sq. in the days before legalized boxing. Boston just has a nice for a small club which could act as training school for young stars anxious to show at the big clubs.

"BOXING COMMISSIONER EUGENE BUCKLEY, one of the old line of referees, got a thrill out of Britton's clever boxing and superb ring generalship. So did Jonnny McGinn, Tommy MacFarland, Charley Burke, Bill Doyle and many more of the old school.

"In the dressing room after the bout, Britton was unmarked, while Sears had a nasty wound under his left eye where he had been annoyed in the fight.

"One young business man was curious and asked me what a young fellow with Britton's skill really could do were I to take a hand in the Mello-Morgan affair.

"I told him I always got a kick when taking in the matches

Story of Modern Marriages and Husband Hunters

CHAPTER 23

ON a Saturday late in November Diana telephoned Beatrice that she was coming to spend the night in the house on the hill.

"I'd love it, Di. Base slowly, and I'll walk down to meet you. Haven't been out lately."

Diana dressed in a leisurely way and was late getting started. Then, to stop gaily down the drive through a sudden, dismal rain, she met Addie and Teddy coming to invite a man to fill a four. When they heard she was bound for the Greenhill they made her pause and climbed into the seat, insisting to a chorus of protests about Bunny and Ann.

Diana paid scant attention, for everybody was talking about Blake—what special thing he was doing for, contrary to custom, on Ann had made an appointment to see him the next day. Diana was not paying much attention to the conversation, but she caught a few words with which to tease Ann.

Bunny was hurt because he was not there. Diana was sorry for him. She knew that Ann never needed any one thing more than she needed the sense of security that Bunny's love gave her. But she doubted if Bunny would ever get what he wanted from Ann. She thought of Blake as a man who would be content to marry a woman who would be a companion to him, who would share his interests and help him in his work. Ann was not that woman. Diana was sure of it. Ann was a child, a beautiful child, who would be content to play with life for a long time. Diana was sorry for Bunny, but she was glad that Ann was not for Blake.

Diana murmured, "Is it as bad as that, dear?"

Don't dose a Child's Cold

CONTINUAL dosing upsets children's delicate stomachs. Vicks is applied externally and therefore cannot disturb the digestion. It acts in two ways:

(1) The body heat releases the ingredients in the form of vapors which are inhaled.

(2) At the same time Vicks "draws out" the soreness like a poultice.

Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use soda-mint. Use what your physician would use.

The best kind is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. For the past 75 years almost everybody in this country has used it with physicians' approval. You will find nothing so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water relieves many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate. When you have bad after-effects from eating, learn this fact, you will never eat with excess acid in the crude way. Get it—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any druggists.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE thing that I admire most about Gene Tunney and Calvin Coolidge is that they know when they've got ENOUGH. They know when it's time to retire!

That is something that few men and almost no woman appear to know. Yet it's the whole secret of HAPPINESS!

Most of a man's headaches come from never knowing when he's got enough to eat or enough to drink. And most of his bankruptcies come from never knowing when he's got enough money, enough publicity, enough work, enough play—and above all enough WOMEN in his life!

* * *

Most women never know when they've got enough hats; none never know when they've got enough husbands.

* * *

And no woman on earth ever got enough love, enough attention or enough admiration. There ISN'T that much in all the world!

You can feed a woman flattery from breakfast time until midnight—and the next morning she'll have to begin telling her the same sweet things all over again, or be accused of "neglecting" her.

* * *

Many a man's love has been strangled to death by a woman's persistence in hanging around his neck and sighing for "more love" or more petting or "just another little kiss." A kiss and a political office can last just a little bit too long—and thereby turn a President or a woman from an idol into a pest.

* * *

A woman never knows when to stop. When to stop talking, when to stop arguing, when to stop nagging—or when to stop saying good-bye! She will now never to speak to a man—and then call him up, next morning, just to say the same thing, all over again.

* * *

Some men go to pieces and die before they have ever really LIVED, because they won't stop working and piling up the dollars. Others go to pieces and peg off before their time because they won't stop playing and give their tired old heart a rest.

* * *

There is a "time to RETIRE" from everything. And the best time is at the height of your fame, your success, your charm or your glory. When you've got ENOUGH!

* * *

The man who struggles to hang onto political power too long only succeeds in wrecking his nerves and making himself hated. And the woman who tries to hang onto her youth and her vanishing power too long only succeeds in getting a solar plexus blow in the vanity and making herself ridiculous.

* * *

The secret of success in everything, from fighting and petting to after-dinner speaking, consists in knowing when to STOP. The classroom time old Ann Parish ever said was "Enough on the march." She never knew that we've got enough of anything until we've had TOO MUCH.

ONCE-OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

DO you ever force yourself to do the thing most distasteful to you?

Take most persons you probably avoid the things you dislike.

The longer you pursue this course the harder it is to change your ways.

It is easy to go through life if only pleasant undertakings are to be followed, or if only tasks things you must do are carried out.

Where is your initiative in disagreeable achievement?

It is a great character builder this doing unpleasant things that ought to be done, because they ought to be done.

Maintain a spirit that welcomes hard tasks.

Make it a gratification to master difficulties.

You won't slip back as long as you keep fighting down to overcome obstacles.

But to try to avoid physical and mental effort is to go down in defeat every time, except by accident, and that rarely.

You need experience to accomplish worthwhile things.

Future rapid transit subways in the United States will be built and owned by the respective communities and conducted as a part of the street system, Henry I. Harriman, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, declares. Operation, he adds, probably would be private under a lease arrangement. He says interest charges on money required to build the subways should be equally divided between the operating company and the community at large. In Boston, where the elevated and subway system was publicly built, the 5 per cent interest charged, divided equally on this basis and it has proved successful, says Mr. Harriman.

Saddling the cost of either subways or elevated on adjoining property is unfair, Mr. Harriman implies. He points out that this was especially true in the case of business property in outlying sections. The inevitable result of the construction of a rapid transit line into these sections, he declares, has been to take business downtown, with the result that merchants have suffered. To make them pay part of the cost of the subway as well as taxes is penalized by the loss of business would be distinctly unfair, he says.

This comment by President Harriman is in line with statements appearing in a column from time to time after the opening of the extension of rapid transit to Fields Corners on the Boston elevated system, by the way, have not been fluctuating greatly in price for some time past.

Aroostook, greatest potato county in the world, is making its first big shipments of the 1928 crop. Nearly 2,000,000 more were handled for the last reported week than in the same week of 1927. Bangor & Aroostook Railroad is expected by many to earn this year twice its $2.50 common dividend. No wonder this big earner has been in demand over in Wall St.

The late George Seaver of Chesham, N. H., a big farmer in his day, once sold me of selling potatoes for 10 cents a bushel, delivered at the church until a mile and a half from his farm, which, by the way, is now among the extensive realty holdings of President Clayton Wells, and able executive of the Massachusetts State Grange. In those days they dug all their potatoes with hoes and backaches and they used ox wagons to go to market.

Wall Street writer says: It is well known in business that the best results are obtained from contented workers and to this end much has been done in late years. But it is doubtful if any company is further advanced in its efforts in this line than the American Optical Co., one of the foremost companies of its kind in the country with which plant located at Southbridge, Mass.

In looking out for the welfare of its employes the company maintains a loan service where funds may be obtained for the purchase or building of homes. In the case of the latter the company also supplies the plans. For workers of foreign birth desiring to become American citizens a school is maintained where instruction is given. One of the more ambitious the company has a vocational school where various trades are taught. There is under the recreation end a department for this purpose is maintained. Under the auspices of this there is a living away from home are furnished quarters at a negligible rate. The company also insures employes and maintains a hospital.

Perhaps the fact that President Channing M. Wells in his climb up the business ladder rode by day with the workers in various branches of the plant may have much to do with the harmony existing between the management and employes. The present head of the company is the son of Edwin F. Wells, American Optical Co., which was founded by his father, in the shipping department of which he worked 18 hours a week for seven years. Working his way up the ladder, various departments he was elected a director in 1901, and successively to the office of treasurer, vice-president and president.

PLANS SEQUEL TO 'DANCING DAUGHTERS'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Los ANGELES, Sept. 25—Most folk go to Europe with one thought in mind. That is to have a good time and to do a little shopping in with their sightseeing. Jo-sephine Lovett seems to be a notable exception. She crossed the pond to pay her husband, John Robertson a visit and while there kept her hand in scenario writing by writing a little each day. The result is a story called "Brass Hand." Irving Thalberg, after reading it, decided that it would make a good picture, and Irving ought to know John Gilbert has been chosen to direct. I thought, perhaps, the theme was inspired by some of our Americans in Europe. It's the story of a life so fast that all beauty has passed it by. The story is all true, but "Brass Band" is scheduled as a sequel to "Dancing Daughters." Joan Crawford, Dorothy Sebastian and Anita Page, all in "Dancing Daughters," will play the three Brass Band beauties in "Brass Band." Hunt Stromberg, just back from Europe, will be in charge of production.

In looking over studio activities I find F. B. O. working as steadily and consistently as any lot in Hollywood. They seem to be doing better things and getting better results. The people all the time. Just by way of example, Marceline Day and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., were signed by F. B. O. to play "The Undertow," and the title is no misnomer, it is a story of youth of the moment, and is based on an original by Paul Gangin.

I was glad to see the name of Myrtle Stedman mentioned as one of the leading beauties of the cast. I haven't set eyes on Miss Stedman in weeks either on the screen or off, and apparently several of her friends have also missed her, for parties have come to my desk as to why Miss Stedman is not making more pictures. H. B. Walthall has the important role, and Lynn Shores will direct.

THE presence of Col. Lindbergh on the United Artists' lot again makers rumors that the colonel may make a picture for this company. At the time the executives of the U. A. were discussing it they denied that the colonel had any such notions, but there is still "Wel" to be heard, and who knows better how to play the part of this great hero than the hero himself.

Discussions, of course, arise as to whether appearing in a motion picture would have any effect on America's attitude toward the colonel as an aviator. Apparently the colonel thinks not, making up his mind in a hurry either, for so far the best that any one can learn about his motion picture plans are rumors, and not very tangible ones at that. Some did have tea with Mary Pickford, and the tea was seen visiting Douglas Fairbanks' set.

WILLIS GOLDBECK, in the not too distant past, was Rex Ingram's scenario writer. Today he is a director, author and a few more important things for Pathe. Paul Bern, who is out to engage as many promising writers as possible, has signed Goldbeck to direct his own scenario, "The Getaway."

This is Goldbeck's first scenario and first directorial job. Robert Armstrong didn't die featured long, and there is some talk that his leading role will be Lina Basquette. Lina, who is well again and ready to go, is eager to begin work and since she is under contract to Pathe, it's likely her wish will be granted. Armstrong himself seems pretty well set at the Pathe studios. They like him.

BACK in the days when Mauricio Costello was every movie fan's ideal for the perfect hero, a stunning woman used to attract attention. Her name and picture was not given on the screen. Then a little bit later she was given credit as Julia Swayne Gordon. No one could wear clothes in quite the same way nor do the grand dame roles as well.

Mrs. Gordon, or is it Miss Gordon, is still in the screen limelight. She has just been signed to play "Three Weekends." Clara Bow's next picture. Her last appearance on the silver lasky lot was in "Wings," although she used to make many pictures for this company.

NOW that summer is about to bow out and talkies are rather well established in Hollywood, production is looking up. Lenore Ulric and Leslie Howard will make Mendes, who will finish "Interference" this week, nothing unforeseen happening to prevent, has signed a new contract with Paramount.

Monta Bell, young, talented scenario writer who seems to be following in the footsteps of his eminent dad, one of the most famous newspaper men of another generation, has just sold F. B. O. a telephone story.

"The Voice of the Storm" is the title and Bert Glennon will do the directorial honors. Mighty clever, fine little actor, has been added to the John Barrymore cast by Ernest Lubitsch.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Betty Bronson appearing in native makeup at the Montmartre. Malcolm Bevlan welcoming his famous mother, Mrs. Grace Duffie Boylan. Mrs. Harry Collins wearing a modish frock designed by her husband. Charlie Chaplin eating his favorite Henry sandwich at Henry's. Ruth Taylor's wood tourists commenting on Harry Crocker's museum.

Al Santell explaining that he shit has a contract with First National and returns there after directing Vilma Banky. Camilla Horn chattering in German to Louis Wolheim. Texas Guinan talking on the telephone to Al Jolson and Ina Ray Hutton, they called for Europe. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

ARREST CHICAGO DOCTOR IN DEATH OF WOMAN

Chicago, Sept. 25 (AP)—Dr. W. Eugene Sholton, operator of an "apartment hospital," was under arrest today with two nurses, a maid and the man whose tip brought the raid. He was charged with the murder of a woman by illegal surgery performed 18 months ago.

An investigation by Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, public health commissioner, and state's attorneys disclosed evidence that six other deaths may have been caused by similar treatment. Dr. Kegel declared he had learned that physicians performing these operations formed a ruind and held regular meetings to discuss methods of their illegal trade.

Buy Advertised Brands

The Reason Is Plain

The French have a saying, a faute de grives on mange des merles, which might be translated, "When you can't get woodcock, you eat blackbirds."

Americans are expected to drink twelve BILLION bottles of soft drinks this year.

If you must drink soft drinks, buy those that advertise, investing money in quality and reputation.

It does not require any great intelligence to realize that when a man advertises his products extensively and expensively he is bound TO MAINTAIN THEIR QUALITY.

Tiffany & Co. could not afford to sell an imitation diamond even if they were foolish enough to want to, which they are not. To them the seven letters that spell TIFFANY are worth more than all the diamonds, pearls, sapphires and rubies in their establishment. They have devoted generations and millions to building up the value of their name, and must MAINTAIN its value.

Similarly, all food products, all staple goods advertised for sale on a big scale, must first of all maintain the value of THE ADVERTISED NAME.

A well advertised clothing firm has actually put more money into its name and advertising than into all its factories. And that investment of millions IN A GOOD NAME is YOUR great security.

Suppose you offered Henry Ford one hundred millions or five hundred millions for the exclusive right to use those four letters F-O-R-D. He would laugh at you. If you made the same cars and wrote the name "Jones" instead of "Ford" on them you couldn't sell them.

If you offered Mr. Sloan, Mr. Knudsen, the DuPonts and others interested in the nine letters, C-H-E-V-R-O-L-E-T, half a billion in cash, they would not be interested. They have put into that name a value that cannot be duplicated or bought.

But they would gladly give you several millions if you could show them how to make the car better.

When you do buy, buy goods that are advertised with NAMES THAT YOU KNOW from their advertising. The cost of advertising is not ADDED to the price of articles sold when business is properly done.

On the contrary, advertising DIMINISHES the cost of goods, for it makes possible the gigantic "mass production," which alone makes the lowest price possible.

If Studebaker, or Chrysler, or Nash, or Dodge, or any competent manufacturer turned out only a hundred or a thousand cars a year, you couldn't buy one car, cheap or dear, for $10,000 or $50,000.

Only intelligent advertising makes low prices possible. And intelligent advertising means that the advertiser has "given hostage to fortune."

Millions are invested in his NAME, sometimes tens of millions, and he must protect that name. And protecting his NAME he protects you.

Think of that when you buy a suit of clothes, a set of furniture, an automobile, a bottle of ginger ale, a pound of coffee or tea, a radio set, or anything else.

New York Day by Day

By O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—The metropolis is a perfect hide-away for innumerable women from all over America who, suddenly thrown upon their own resources, seek protection of the city's immensity to rebuild their lives. New York is never questioning. A past is of little interest.

Most of these women have been deserted by husbands. Out of a clear sky, in many instances, they find themselves homeless, penniless and faced with the problem of supporting children. Some men are that way and it is estimated there are 50,000 such deserted wives in the city.

They open small tea rooms, canvas from door to door, serve as governesses, cafe cashiers and follow other occupations requiring no long training. They form an army of shabby gentility, or nearly all have seen better days.

There are few cities where helping hands are so quickly extended to struggling women as this. A hundred and one different charity societies are formed to ameliorate the unhappy plight of mothers left suddenly with broods to face the world.

Employers have found such women are a little more inclined to appreciate jobs than younger women merely trying to find a place for themselves until they marry. A list of deserted wives who have met success here would be quite amazing.

One deserted wife sent two daughters through fashionable schools from her profits in selling lingerie at doors of stage dressing rooms. Another built up a large importing business. Several others succeeded in establishing chains of restaurants.

Welfare workers at terminals stations report an average of 10 deserted wives arrive in New York daily with absolutely no asset save indomnitable courage. They are chiefly women past middle age and of obvious refinements.

PROFESSIONAL dog thieves work in pairs and make handsome profits. After stealing a dog, they await the inevitable lost ad in newspapers. Then one calls and informs the owner he has seen a dog answering a description of the lost pet at a certain address. The owner calls, is told the animal just wandered in, reclaims it and the rascals share the reward. Courts show dog thieves little mercy.

NEW YORK is calloused to the spectacle of tipsy young girls in public. In almost any cafe at night they come in buoyantly binned, usually with escorts, but sometimes just wandering about alone and for no good purpose. Their manner is saucy. Waiters prefer men with obstinate jags to a cock-eyed flapper. She does not know what she wants, but wants it in a hurry or somebody is going to get a piece of her mind.

I WONDER if telegraph office clerks are thoughtful or merely saving time when some embarrassed author of a lovey-dovey night letter hands them the message and they count the words backward.

IT is funny how when most of us hand in an important telegram we have a feeling the clerk does not consider it important whatever and may not even send it. There is an inclination after we leave to go back and stress just how important it is.

AS an adorer of frankness, I enjoyed overhearing a rather vixenish dowager introducing a titmpty gentleman trotting along dogfice behind her to a lady friend. "This is my husband," she said and snapped: "He's a perfect fool."

A SMART idea is that for a Frankness League. Why not describe the person we introduce? People should be warned when meeting congenial idiots. Or the fellow who wants to tell you about his trip to Europe.

Gladsome Tidings

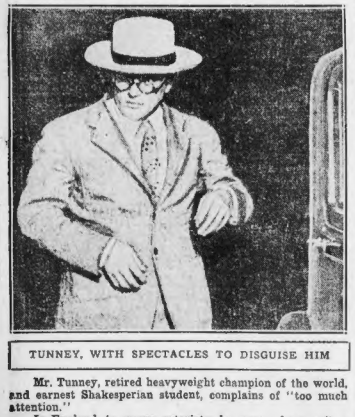
It Seems That the Bee Is Not So Busy as Popularly Supposed

Far and away the most pleasant piece of news of the day is the announcement from the Heckscher Foundation at Cornell University to the effect that the bee is not half so busy as it has been cracked up to be for countless generations. Dr. Lloyd R. Watson asserts that the chief trouble with bees from an industrial viewpoint is that they are lazy little loafers. He studied swarms of them, making all the so-called workers sign a time book, figuratively speaking. What did he find? Why, he found that they make from six to ten trips gathering honey from flowers then knock off for the day. A deep sea diver works almost as long as these overrated insects.

It is high time the bee superstition was squelched, and millions of children should call the name of Dr. Watson blessed, after this discovery. No longer will teachers be able to advise their pupils to be as busy as bees, no longer will the ancient song, "How Doth the Busy Little Bee," sound out, without an accompaniment of laughter. Children always suspected that the bee was a winged hypocrite, for any animal that guarded treasure so sweet as honey so selfishly couldn't be much good. Dr. Watson is trying to breed bees that will be truly busy. He needn't. Let him just breed stingless ones.

Gene Tunney Disguised

"A Goldfish in a Bowl"



TUNNEY, WITH SPECTACLES TO DISGUISE HIM

Mr. Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world, and earnest Shakesperian student, complains of "too much attention."

In England, to escape notoriety, he wore a loose suit, a hat that came far down on his forehead, and big goggles, with plain glass. His sight is perfect.

When asked why he didn't want people to see him, he said, "I am tired of it, I feel like a goldfish in a bowl."

You know the goldfish in a bowl floats round and round, in plain sight of everybody.

Every man has a right to feel as he chooses.

But, if instead of feeling like a goldfish in a bowl, Mr. Tunney were like most humans, he would find notoriety not so unpleasant.

To be absolutely unnoticed does not suit the average

THE INSTITUTE AT WILLIAMSTOWN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

AN Institute of Politics recently met at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. Some 200 or more college professors, editors, diplomats, army and navy officers and others interested in foreign affairs attended.

A Turkish feminist, Halide Edib, lectured on affairs in Turkey.

Although this meeting was entirely unofficial it was significant nonce the less.

It always helps when people of different nations and races get together and talk things over.

There have been a good many sneers at "Just talk," but talk is an innocent outlet. The more you talk the less you fight. When people meet together and compare ideas they find that their differences are not so great after all.

This Institute has discussed such questions as the League of Nations, reparations, war debts, Bolshevism in Russia and Fascism in Italy.

It has been a good thing to get these questions out in the open and air them. Any one of them contained the seed of war if it had been smothered.

Almost any idea can become septic and dangerous if it is only kept bottled up.

When a Bolshevist, or any other wild-eyed performer, shows signs of functioning, it is a good thing to get him on a soap box in the public square, or hire him and let him orate to his heart's content. His gas, spent in the open air, is speedily diffused, and hurts nobody, whereas if he were locked up in a cell the popular imagination would speedily make a menace of him.

But talking a thing over publicly we soon get tired of it. Most important issues that were once subjects of furious debate have disappeared because people were bored.

Very few of the great issues in church and state have ever been settled. The audience simply got sleepy and left.

If such meetings as this institute and others had not talked over the Dawes Plan, the Lausanne Treaty and other hotly argued subjects, they might have plunged Europe into another war and destroyed western civilization.

By all means let us talk. Only the dumb are dangerous. Everybody wants to fight a person who will not say anything. If a man has reasons for his conduct you can bring up counter reasons, but if he will give no reason at all the only alternative is to sock him.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MOTHER BROWN says she's at her wits' end because 15-year-old daughter Sally is so boy crazy.

Boy craziness, according to Mother Brown, is but one degree removed from hydrophobia, bubonic plague, dementia praecox and glanders.

"It's this fast modern age," she laments. "Girls were certainly not like that when I was young. Of course, we liked good wholesome fun and when the time came we were glad to marry because we all wanted homes of our own. But this mad desire to be with boys was unheard of. No nice girl was boy crazy. Yet my little girls seems to think of nothing else. She is always begging to go to the movies with some boy or asking if she can't have a party and invite boys. But I have put my foot down. I am willing to let her have occasional parties for her girl friends, but I think she is much too young to have anything to do with boys. I try to make her see that all this interest in boys is unnatural and that it cheapens a girl. Won't you please say a few words on the subject, Miss Robinson? She reads your column."

Will I say a few words on the subject?

TRY AND STOP ME.

But oh how mad Mama Brown is going to be when she reads those words. For I rise to the defence of daughter Sally.

I deny that it's cheap and abnormal for a young girl to like boys—and like 'em lots.

I deny that young ladies of Mama Brown's youth led lives cool and remote from debasing interests in males. I suspect that Mama and I were girls at about the same time.

Was I boy crazy then? I WAS. Moreover, I still AM and I don't care who knows it. And I have my suspicions of any female between the ages of eight and eighty who ISN'T.

There is no impulse in a young girl more fundamental, natural or wholesome, if rightly guided, than her liking for boys or her desire to seek their society. And if anyone thinks that the male has anything on the female as a seeker, I advise him to read the following report of an experiment which Dr. Watson reports in his new book, "Psychological Care of Infant and Child."

"Professor Moss of George Washington University made some recent experiments along these lines (i. e. sex interest) with animals. He placed a male rat brought up in a mixed colony with other males and females at one end of a box. At the other he placed a female behind a wire fence. Before the male could get to the female he had to pass over an electrically charged network of wires on the floor. The strength of the current could be increased to the point where the male just would not walk over it. This gave a measure of the 'punishment' he would take to get to the female. It was found that he would take considerable punishment to reach her.

"Will the female take an equal amount of punishment to get at the male when the experiment is reversed? Moss' experiments show that they will take even greater punishment."

Yes, I know that Dr. Watson is talking about rats. But girls will be girls, be they quadruped or biped. And if parents have the sense God gave a gooseberry they'll recognize the fact and proceed accordingly.
